OMNIBUS BILL DUE TO GO TO HOUSE TODAY

U.S. Workers Are Hardest Hit in Move to Save $200,000,000.

PROVISIONS OF PLAN REVEALED TO PUBLIC

McDuffie Will Ask Right to Attach It to Appropriations Measure.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A bill placing the brunt of Federal retrenchment on the Government employe, fruit of eight weeks' labor by the House Democratic economy committee, will be reported to the House today by Economy Chairman John McDuffie.

Printed copies of the sweeping measure, embracing pay cuts, abolishing Saturday half holidays, prohibiting wage raises, eliminating overtime pay, hitting retirement compensation, curtailing married workers and forcing superannuated employes out of the service, were made public last night by the House group.

Chairman McDuffie will go before the House rules committee at 10:30 o'clock this morning to seek the right to attach his bill Wednesday to the legislative appropriations measure. He personally favors provision in the rule for considering substitution of the President's plan for enforced Federal furloughs, so that members may have pay cut and furlough plans before them.

Provisions of Measure.

The committee draft of the bill printed yesterday provides for executive power to reorganize the Government; four distinct consolidations of Federal agencies, including Army and Navy merger, interchange of work between Government departments, restriction on veterans' allowances and a host of miscellaneous proposals for effecting Government economies.

"This represents a nonpartisan effort, so far as we were able to make it so," Representative McDuffie said, in releasing the bill.

"The committee was not unanimous on all of its provisions, and there are some items that I myself do not personally favor. But in principle we generally were in agreement. The bill we have brought in I think should save considerably in excess of $200,000,000."

An analysis of the bill shows beyond all doubt that the Federal worker carries the major burden of the projected economies.

Federal Workers Hit.

Besides proposed 11 per cent reductions in salary, with $1,000 exemption, the bill agreed to makes the following provisions affecting Government employes:

1. Saturday half holidays become inoperative during the fiscal year 1933.

2. Married workers would be the first discharged where husband and wife are employed in the Government service.

3. Compensation for overtime, night work and work on Sundays and holidays suspended.

4. Workers reaching the retirement age would be forced to retire, without right of extension of service.

5. Pay cut provisions, with $1,000 exemption, would apply to retirement compensation.

6. Automatic increases in pay suspended.

7. Promotions within grades suspended.

8. No vacancies filled, except in temporary, emergency, seasonal and

Irish Ministers Quit Social Ball

Leave as Governor General Arrives and British Anthem Is Played.

Dublin, Irish Free State, April 24 (A.P.).—A great sensation was caused in Dublin today by two ministers of the Irish Free State's new Republican government having ostentatiously left a social function at the French Legation last night when Gov. Gen. James McNeill arrived and the British national anthem was played. The incident was regarded as an intimation the Irish government was determined not to have a governor general.

The occasion was a ball given by Charles Alphand, French Minister to the Free State, and Mme. Alphand, for a daughter who recently was married to a Dublin man named Fitzgerald. Many prominent society folk attended, including the American and German Ministers.

After the guests had assembled, Gov. Gen. McNeill entered the room and the British anthem was played. The two ministers and their friends left the ballroom and the legation.

Chinese Win Major Fights in Manchuria

Reds Control 34 of 70 Districts in Kiangsi, Near Amoy.

Hongkong, China, April 24 (A.P.).—While Amoy, focal point of a Communist military drive in recent weeks, remained tense but quiet today, Communist troops were reported extending their power in Kiangsi.

They were taking advantage of Cantonese troops withdrawals to Fukien to cope with the situation there (Kiangsi Province adjoins Fukien on the northwest. Both are Cantonese provinces, i. e., Southern China, and Amoy is in Fukien.)

Statistics of the Canton authorities released today said that of the 70 districts in Kiangsi, 34 are wholly in Communist hands, 22 widely affected by Communist influence and 8 partly controlled by the extremists.

The government estimated that 500,000 persons had been slain in South China by the Communists within two years, and $600,000,000 Mexican (less than $200,000,000) in property had been destroyed.

The Communists were reported to have captured the large town of Maanho on Hainan Island in the last week.

Mukden, Manchuria, April 24 (A. P.).—Chinese press dispatches today said Communists were cooperating with Gen. Sun Liang Chen in his drive on Amoy, adding that the Communists had proclaimed a "Soviet provincial government of Fukien," naming a well-known extremist, Mao Tse-Tung, as "chairman."

Lin Pia-o, a southern Communist, was reported named field commander of the Communist armies.

Tokyo Aids Pu-Yi Forces to Retake One City; Road Damaged.

Harbin, Manchuria, April 24 (U.P.).—Chinese rebels against the new pro-Japanese government of Henry Pu-Yi closed in on the Manchurian troops in half a dozen districts today and were victorious except where Japanese soldiers were pitted against them.

The new outburst of fighting, in which eleven Japanese subjects were reported killed, intensified the danger to the new regime at a time when the League of Nations investigating commission, headed by Lord Lytton, of Britain, is disputing its right to bar Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese diplomat accompanying the commission into Manchuria.

The most serious clash was reported from Sancha, 35 miles south of Harbin, where 3,000 Chinese captured the town and were said to have killed eleven Japanese. The same band destroyed the southern branch of the Chinese Eastern Railroad near Sancha and derailed eleven freight cars, which were looted. The Manchurian army, supported by Japanese, finally repulsed the attackers.

Another group of 1,000 Chinese attacked Anta, 40 miles northeast of Harbin, released prisoners from jails and held 24 prominent citizens, including the governor, as hostages. The vice governor was killed.

Previously, the rebels had defeated the Manchukuo troops in the Taolaichao district after a long skirmish in which a section of the railroad was destroyed.

Tentative List of Officials for Executive Posts Is Issued by Shouse.

(Associated Press.)

The tentative roster of officials for the Democratic national convention has been completed with the designation of Ewing LaPorte, of Pittsburgh, as executive secretary of the committee on arrangements.

In addition to Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, and Jouett Shouse, who have been proposed as temporary and permanent chairman of the convention, respectively, Mr. Shouse announced yesterday the following for election by the convention:

Chief reading clerk, Patrick J. Haltigan, reading clerk of the House.

Cannon, Romney, Haltigan and Halsey have occupied similar positions at other conventions. LaPorte, associated with the national committee headquarters, was Assistant Secretary of the Theaury in the Wilson administration.

Boston, April 24 (A.P.).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks will not be permanently disfigured as the result of face and other injuries received in an airplane accident at Worcester recently, Mrs. Hawks, who has been constantly at the famous speed flier's bedside, said tonight.

NORFOLK CONVINCED CLIMAX APPROACHES

Week-End Is Crowded With Mysterious Incidents in Kidnaper Hunt.

Norfolk, Va., April 24 (U.P.).—Activities of John Hughes Curtis during a week-end crowded with mysterious incidents, led Norfolk to believe today that a climax is approaching in the negotiations with the supposed kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr.

Riding at anchor in a small inlet known as Little Creek, 10 miles from Norfolk, is the luxurious yacht Marcon, owned by Charles H. Consolvo, multimillionaire hotel man of Baltimore, Richmond and Norfolk. On this yacht, it was known today, Curtis has been quartered since Thursday.

Shortly after noon today, however, it was reported that the boat builder who claims to have been in contact with the kidnapers, had left the yacht. The owner was not aboard, but an unidentified man, gray-haired, dressed in brown, and of a distinguished appearance, was still a guest.

Greece to Defer Debt; May Quit Gold Basis

Athens, Greece, April 24 (A.P.).—The government today decided to postpone for one year repayment due on May 5 of an advance of $7,500,000 on a loan for productive works made by Speyer & Seligman Co.

It was announced that difficulty had been encountered in finding sufficient foreign exchange, but that interest of $300,000 on the loan would be paid. A semiofficial message said Premier Venizelos tommorrow would announce the abandonment of the gold standard by Greece.

Huge Chinese Funeral Given U. S. Flier Japanese Killed

Mother and Brother of Robert Short Attend Rites Along With Many of Far East Nation's High Dignitaries; Accorded Full Military Honors.

Shanghai, April 24 (A.P.).—Tens of thousands of Chinese today lined the streets of Shanghai for the state funeral of Robert Short, American aviator who was shot down in the recent "Shanghai War" during an encounter with Japanese airplanes.

The Nationalist government buried the flier with full military honors and the flier's mother and brother from Seattle, Wash., were guests of the authorities.

When Short was shot down over Soochow on February 22, in a Chinese airplane, he was "just an aviator." Today he was buried as a colonel in the Nationalist government army in recognition of his efforts on behalf of the Chinese.

The funeral was the largest ever witnessed in Shanghai for a foreigner. It was held in the Foreign Church of the International Settlement with an American clergyman officiating.

Many high Chinese dignitaries attended the ceremony in addition to official representatives of the Nanking government and scores of government departmental and army service executives.

The flier was buried at Hunjao Airdrome, from which he flew to his death, and a detachment of the famous Nineteenth Route Army, which defended Shanghai, was his escort.

As the massive steel casket was lowered into a vault, Chinese soldiers fired a last salute, and Chinese buglers sounded taps. Two Chinese airplanes draped in black banners droned overhead, in their farewells to a fallen colonel.

Rain came pattering down as the echo of the final rifle salutes died away and Mrs. Short and her son, Edmund, stood with bowed heads before the flower-heaped tomb.

1,000 ARRESTED AS BRITISH END REBEL SESSION

Stern Measures Taken to Suppress Indian Congress.

EMBARGO IS ELUDED BY 200 NATIONALISTS

Millionaire Native Is Leader of Outbreak Defying Viceroy's Orders.

New Delhi, India, Monday, April 25 (U.P.).—More than 1,000 independence demonstrators were arrested throughout India last night in connection with suppression of the national congress meeting at New Delhi, where delegates gathered in defiance of government ban.

The Delhi district was like a besieged camp in war time. All roads leading to the capital were lined with tents in which hundreds of police were quartered.

Other police detachments were stationed at railroad points to halt assembly of Nationalists. The government said firm measures would be enforced to frustrate further activity by the congress.

Millionaire Leads Outbreak.

The new Delhi outbreak was led by Seth Ranchand Das, Ahmedabad millionaire, who took charge of the congress meeting after Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, famous poet, and the Pandit Madan Mohun Malaviya had been arrested. Police had banned the meeting and virtually every well-known Nationalist leader, including the Mahatma Gandhi was in jail when the delegates began their surprise attack.

The 200 delegates taking part in the demonstration had slipped into the capital despite strong police patrols set up to keep them out. They caught the police napping when they convened secretly on Chandni Chowk, in the heart of the city, and attempted to hold their first meeting.

They quickly distributed printed resolutions reaffirming the congress aim of complete independence and calling for intensification of civil disobedience in defiance of the severe repressive measures enforced by the government under direction of Lord Willingdon, the viceroy.

Armored Cars Made Ready.

The police fought a mild form of guerilla warfare with the demonstrators and led all away to a big internment camp which had been made ready last week after assembly of more than five persons was forbidden by the government.

There were armored cars standing by and reserves in readiness, but the police handled the situation with skill and dispatch. There was only one serious occurrence and it was safely passed by the quick action of officers. A band of 100 Sikhs, headed by a man carrying the black flag, squatted in the center of a street and refused to move.

The police obviously had feared the Sikhs would cause trouble and there was considerable alarm until the officers ordered the Sikhs picked up bodily and dumped into motor lorries, which carried them to jail.

Blast Looses Tons Of Water on Town

Mine District Explosion Is Laid to Sympathizers of Strike.

Triadelphia, W. Va., April 24 (A.P.). A terrific dynamite explosion early today wrecked a large water tank on a hillside above Triadelphia and sent 30,000 gallons of water swirling down into the mining village. The blast was attributed to strike sympathizers.

No one was injured, but the water caused considerable damage, undermining foundations of several dwellings and throwing the Triadelphia mine of the Elm Grove Mining Co. into darkness. The colony was panic-stricken for a time.

The water tank, 20 feet high and 16 feet in diameter, was demolished. Deputy sheriffs, hurrying to the scene from Wheeling at 2:30 a. m., reported they were fired upon from a hillside as they approached Triadelphia. No arrests were made. State troopers are searching the hills for the vandals.

Stimson Is Improved; To Continue Arms Work

Geneva, April 24 (A.P.).—The slight illness of Henry L. Stimson, the American Secretary of State, was so improved today he decided to remain in Geneva instead of going to the mountains for a short rest, as his physicians had advised.

Mr. Stimson, who came here last week to attend the world disarmament conference now in session, is suffering from subacute laryngitis, but he was able to play a round of golf this morning and do a little work this afternoon. He received no political callers today.

SENATE SHORT PROBE MAY GO TO NEW YORK

Committee to Consider Sending Agents Into Brokerage Houses.

WILL FIND IF POOLS INFLUENCED PRICES

Inquiry Widened to Include Kreuger-Toll and Other Foreign Operations.

(Associated Press.)

Clear determination to find out whether stock market pools, in which Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee and other important financiers figured, were operated to manipulate the market was expressed yesterday by Senate banking committee members.

The committee will meet today to consider sending agents into New York brokerage houses to investigate these pools.

Existence of a number of pools has been discovered by the committee in its brief investigation, so far, but little or nothing is known about their operation.

A $32,000,000 pool in Anaconda Copper was described to the committee Saturday, in which Raskob participated together with Fred J. Fisher, automobile body manufacturer; Percy Rockefeller, W. C. Durant, William F. Kenny and others.

Manipulation Denied.

Thomas E. Bragg, big "bear trader," said the pool which operated in 1929 was on the "long side" of the market and lost money, but he refused to admit any attempt at manipulating the price.

Many of the same group were described as having participated in a pool on radio, about the same time, which was also on the bull end of the market.

Committee agents said yesterday they had information about a score of other pools on the board within the past three or four years, some supposedly on the bear side.

Members of the committee feel that the only way to find out how these pools really operated is to examine the books of the stock exchange and participating brokers. This, however, will require more money and more experts.

One of the angles some members are particularly anxious to investigate is the connection between the pool operations and market specialists.

Criticized by Senators.

Bragg testified Saturday that M. J. Meehan, market specialist for Radio, was in on the pool in that stock. Bernard E. Smith, another witness

Hurley Denies He Seeks Post of Vice President

Oklahoma City, April 24 (A.P.).—Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, scotched reports today that he aspires to be President Hoover's running mate by an announcement that "under no circumstances would he be a candidate against Vice President Charles Curtis.

Secretary Hurley will deliver the keynote address in the State Republican convention here tomorrow. He said he would ask the delegates to indorse the Vice President for renomination and would return in the fall to stump the State for the "Hoover-Curtis ticket."

2 Women and 4 Children Dead in Crossing Crash

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 24 (A.P.).—Two women and four children were killed instantly late today when their automobile was demolished by a Pennsylvania passenger train 2 miles east of Monroeville. They were identified as Miss Teresa Ott, of Fort Wayne; Mrs. Louis Krause, of Sheldon, Ind., and Mrs. Krause's four children.

The automobile was dragged 200 feet, the motor was torn from the body, and the body itself flung against a telegraph pole along the right-of-way.

Smith Counter-Attack Begun by Mrs. Norton

Chadbourne Says Roosevelt's Naming Would Defeat Party.

Consigns Foes of Former Governor to Political Oblivion.

New York, April 24 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was made the target for a vigorous political attack by a noted lawyer today as he departed, optimistic and smiling, for the governors' conference at Richmond, Va.

Thomas L. Chadbourne, attorney and self-labeled progressive Democrat, gave out for morning paper publication a letter saying the nomination of Roosevelt for the Presidency would not only cost the Democratic party an opportunity for victory, but also would alienate "thoughtful and independent-minded Democrats."

When Roosevelt left before noon he remarked that he just had talked with a newspaper correspondent from California, where a spirited primary campaign is in progress for Speaker John N. Garner, Alfred E. Smith and himself.

Asked about the outlook, the governor lifted his ban on political com-

Boston, April 24 (A.P.).—A counter-attack against assaults upon the Democratic party leadership of Alfred E. Smith was launched here today by Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, on the eve of the Massachusetts primary election Tuesday.

In an appeal for the nomination of Smith to the Presidency, Mrs. Norton, vice chairman of the New Jersey Democratic committee, consigned to "political oblivion" members of the party opposing Smith.

"The political charlatans who have deserted Gov. Smith are mad," she told an assembly of women. "Like all weak-kneed traitors, their day of reckoning is not far away. Political oblivion for those who have any recognition, and that number is inconsequential, is just around the corner."

Although the New Jersey party leaders form a strong pro-Smith fac-

SIXTH BODY SOUGHT IN KANAWHA CAVE-IN

Five Victims of Earth Slides at U. S. Dam Identified; Gas Blast Feared.

Marmet, W. Va., April 24 (A.P.).—Tons of earth, torn from the banks of the Kanawha River, brought death last night to at least six workmen on the new Federal Government dam under construction here.

Sandy banks, weakened by recent rains, crumbled down on the men of the night shift as they worked in a pit on the landward side of the lock. Two men were trapped in that cave-in.

Between 50 and 75 workmen went to the aid of their entombed comrades and a second and larger slide sent 100 tons of dirt down on the rescue workers.

Five bodies were recovered and identified as those of James Lewis Collins, 35; Alfred Rausch, 18, a water boy; Delbert Gordon; Harry Coleman, 30, formerly of Poolsville, Ohio, and Lewis M. Thornton, 22. All lived near Marmet.

Rescue workers believe only one body remains buried and that it is that of Chester Ryan, 18, of Kittanning, Pa. However, they plan to sift the small mountain of earth to make certain.

The second cave-in, in addition to burying four men, carried a two-story tool house and a small shed into the 50-foot pit and disrupted the camp's lighting system. For several hours two floodlights far out on the cofferdam furnished the only light for the 75 rescue workers and a steam shovel in the search for the missing men. The slide also cracked a gas line, liberating a considerable quantity of gas and causing workmen to fear an explosion.

Four bodies were recovered last night within four hours after the cave-in, but the rescue crews and steam shovel worked in vain the rest

Lancaster Again Freed After Miami Grilling

Miami, Fla., April 24 (A.P.).—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, in custody three times since Thursday as a result of the fatal shooting of his roommate, Haden Clarke, 26, and a Federal agents' inquiry into an alleged smuggling project, was released again tonight.

He was arrested by Federal officers last night upon his release from jail in connection with the Clarke case, but was freed after several hours' questioning. He was taken back to the county jail shortly after midnight and questioned through the day before his release tonight. Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix and Clarke's fiancee, was exonerated yesterday of blame in the shooting and released.

LAST ALIENIST FILES FINDINGS ON MASSIE

San Francisco Expert Holds Naval Officer Sane on Night of Killing.

Honolulu, April 25 (A.P.).—Dr. Joseph Catton, San Francisco alienist, expected to be the final prosecution rebuttal witness in the trial of four persons charged with the revenge murder of Joseph Kahahawai, submitted a report on his findings in the case today.

While both Dr. Catton and attorneys refused to divulge the contents of the report, it was learned authoritatively that Dr. Catton's findings support the prosecution contention that Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., one of the defendants, was not insane when he held the pistol that killed the young native.

Dr. Catton will be the third alienist to combat the claim of the defense that the lieutenant was mentally deranged when he shot the alleged attacker of his young wife, Thalia Massie.

Codefendants with Massie are Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted men.

The prosecution already has entered the testimony of two alienists, Dr. Paul Bowers, of Los Angeles, and Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician here.

Dr. Bowers said he believed the whole affair premeditated. Dr. Faus said he believed Lieut. Massie never was insane.

Completion of testimony in the case of the four defendants, who are charged with second degree murder, was postponed yesterday until tomorrow to permit Dr. Catton to finish his study of the testimony to date.

Previously Clarence Darrow, chief of defense counsel, introduced two California alienists for the defense. They were Dr. J. Thomas Orbison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams. Both testified a "mental bomb" went off in the mind of Lieut. Massie when

Candidacy of Dr. France Amazes G. O. P. Leaders

Baltimore, April 24 (A.P.).—Interrupting his street corner campaign over the Sabbath, Dr. Joseph I. France, former United States senator, today found several Republican leaders of the Eastern Shore of Maryland surprised that he was a candidate for the party nomination for President. From his home in Port Deposit, Md., Dr. France used the telephone to contact with the sectional leaders.

"They were amazed when I explained the situation," he said. "Why one leader didn't even know that I had filed. I haven't had a chance to organize a State-wide campaign."

Rock Creek Park Forest Fire Draws Large Crowd

A forest fire, which swept over an area of more than five acres in Rock Creek Park yesterday afternoon, attracted a crowd of several hundred Sunday motorists and presented a problem to police and firemen who rushed to the scene.

The blaze was discovered by Private B. J. Beckman, of the United States Park Police, as he patrolled his beat near Daniel and Wise roads at the north end of the park. Dense smoke which spread throughout the section attracted Beckman's attention.

Leaving his motorcycle at the side of the road, he made his way through the thick underbrush and located the fire only after a difficult tramp far back into the woods. Seeing the flames were beyond his control, the policeman returned to his motorcycle and hurried to sound an alarm.

Firemen experienced difficulty in bringing their apparatus close enough to fight the stubborn blaze. With the aid of police details and scores of civilians, however, the flames were soon brought under control. Patrolman Beckman said the fire had apparently been burning several hours before it was discovered.

HITLER'S NAZIS SHOW BIG GAINS IN STATE DIETS

But Fail to Take Over Prussian Government or Any Other.

RISE FROM 9 TO 162 SEATS IN MAIN UNIT

Bitter Campaign Ends With 3 Deaths; Party Advances in Austria Also.

Berlin, April 24 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler's National Socialists (Fascists) became the strongest political party in four of the five German states where Diet elections were held today, including Prussia, which alone constitutes two-thirds of Germany, but nowhere did they prove strong enough to take over the government alone.

While in Anhalt, and possibly in Wurttemberg, they were almost certain to head Rightist coalitions, they apparently failed to gain a place in the cabinets of Prussia, Bavaria and Hamburg.

A bitter campaign for supremacy between the Republican government factions and the Fascist legions of the fiery Hitler, who only two weeks ago failed to win the German presidency from President Paul von Hindenburg, ended with three fatalities, a number of other casualties and minor disorders.

The election determined the political complexion of the state Diets.

Nazis Gain in Prussia.

All parties concentrated their efforts on Prussia on the theory that "whoever controls Prussia controls the Reich." Here the Fascist Nazis made a gain from 9 seats to 162, at the expense of the German Nationals, People's and State's (Democratic) parties, which suffered crushing defeats.

The only other party gaining in Prussia was the Communist, which now has 57 as compared to its former 48. The Social Democrats (Socialists) were heavy losers, dropping from 137 to 93. Even the Catholic Centrists lost 4 seats.

The official final count in the Prussian election returns, showing a total of 22,402,000 votes, was:

National Socialists, 8,008,000; Social Democrats, 4,675,000; Centrists, 3,374,000; Communists, 2,820,000; German Nationals, 1,525,000; State's party, 332,000; People's party, 331,000; Christian Socialists, 255,000; Economic party, 191,000; Farmers, 177,000; smaller parties, 714,000.

Returns in Other States.

Wurttemberg—National Socialists, 328,000; Social Democrats, 206,000; Centrists, 254,000; Communists, 116,000; German Nationals, 254,000.

Bavaria—Bavarian People's party, 1,272,000; National Socialists, 1,271,000; Social Democrats, 604,000; Com-

WILLARD SANGUINE IN B. & O. REPORT

Rail Head Says Business Will Rise When Federal Aid Takes Effect.

New York, April 24 (A.P.)—Business should improve and railroad traffic return to more normal conditions "as the anticipated beneficial results of the constructive measures taken by the Government in an effort to stabilize the financial structure of the country become more widely felt," said Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., in his 1931 report to stockholders, issued today.

"While traffic," he stated, "continues to show a decrease under that of the preceding year, since January, 1932, there has been no further decline in the trend of traffic, and through added economies every effort is being made to overcome on your property the effects of the conditions generally prevailing."

During 1931 Baltimore & Ohio added to its holdings in the Reading Co. 1,600 shares of that road's first preferred stock, 1,800 shares of second preferred and 7,300 common shares at a total cost of $775,069. Also, New York Transit & Terminal Co., a wholly owned subsidiary, acquired 800 shares of Reading first preferred, 6,500 of second preferred and 41,600 common shares, thus giving Baltimore & Ohio 41.8 per cent of Reading's outstanding stock.

Net income for the year, as previously reported, was $3,802,978, against $21,423,771 in 1930, equal to 57 cents a common share, compared with $7.44 in the previous year. There was a draft of $7,521,891 on surplus to meet common dividends paid in 1931. Current assets on December 31 totaled $42,040,956, against current liabilities of $64,804,637.

Policeman Is Hurt In Rum Arrests

Man, 32, and Girl, 15, Are Held on Assault and Liquor Charges.

A colored man and girl were arrested on charges of illegal possession of liquor and assault as the result of attack on Pvt. W. D. Perry, of the headquarters vice squad, yesterday when he intercepted a delivery of alleged whisky.

Perry said he was attempting to arrest three colored men who were about to carry sixteen jars into a house on B street southeast. They resisted, he said, and started to break the jars. Then two colored women joined the affray. Incited by a crowd that gathered, the five inflicted several bruises on Perry, who, however, salvaged eight of the half-gallon jars, and arrested two. The other three escaped.

Alfred Williams, 32, of 28 Patterson street northeast, and Thelma Robinson, 15, of 1631 B street southeast, were the names given by those arrested. Perry was treated for his minor injuries at Emergency Hospital and went back on duty.

CURRAN DENOUNCES SUBMISSION DELAY

Raps Missouri Compromise Plan and Warns Against Tactics of Drys.

(Associated Press.)

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, yesterday opposed the "Missouri compromise prohibition plank" adopted by the Republican State convention and all other such proposals recently presented as an effort by the drys to "delay submission."

The Missouri plan provides for a changed form of referendum.

Reiterating his association would ask both party conventions for planks declaring for "straight submission of straight repeal," Curran said:

"It is clear now that the dwindling dry forces foresee defeat for their refusal to allow the American people to vote on the question of national prohibition. They no longer oppose submission of this question. Instead they seek to delay the submission of it by these devices so well known to all politicians.

"It means a complete change of front. Our fight is no longer for submission of the question, but for prompt submission as against indefinite delay."

Curran said it was time now to "take a good look at those four acrobats of the dry rear guard, Byrd, Hyde, Brookhart and the 'business friend of the President' (whom he did not name), lest they fool us out of a fair fight to get rid of the eighteenth amendment and the criminal and economic evils which have come with it."

In their proposals, he saw an effort to "rewrite the Constitution so that the retreating drys may gain a respite of delay of several years before the American people take a vote for or against national prohibition."

SpanishAirman Finishes First Leg of Manila Hop

Malaga, Spain, April 24 (A.P.).—Fernando Rein, a Spanish aviator, landed at the airport tonight on the first leg of his projected flight from Madrid to Manila, P. I., by easy stages.

He was slow in reaching Malaga because of a slight accident which forced him down at Albacete. He next plans to fly to Algiers. Rein was banqueted in a farewell by several hundred friends last night before taking off today at Madrid in his Lornig (Spanish-made) monoplane. He indicated he might attempt to return from Manila by airplane if his flight were successful.

Longs and Shorts Seem Only Two Divisions Now

By JOHN J. DALY

IT has come to the point where there are just two classes of people in these United States, the long and the short. That has nothing to do with measurement, whether they be six-footers or midgets. It means they are long or short on stock market speculation.

If a man is long in the market he is mighty apt to be short in cash and securities. If he is short in the market it is likely that they will take him for a long, long ride, as evidenced by the Senatorial investigation.

The popular expression, "It won't be long now," must have originated with the short operators, who went in for a long pull.

* * * *

ALL the testimony in congressional committee halls, while somewhat vague to the uninitiated, is quite simple when translated into every day language.

If a man is long in the market he must plan on remaining a short time each day at the ticker, to watch and wait.

If a man is short in the market he can stay away from the ticker as long as he desires; provided, of course, the bears are in the saddle, the bears being the boys who make the bull-rushes.

* * * *

IF, on the other hand, the bulls—and, of course, this does not mean the police—raid the shorts and get the upper hand, a short operator must not be long in getting out of the market. His motto then must be, "Go while the going is good."

The main idea is to be one thing or the other; long or short. If you are short you never know how long it is going to be before you are caught, and if you are long it may be only a short time before you are broke. The clock of time keeps turning, and its hands are long and short.

So between the shorts and the longs, whichever way you take 'em, the merry-go-round of Wall Street is both exciting and exhilarating.

The long players short on cash and the short players long on the witness stand.

PRIMARY TOMORROW IN MASSACHUSETTS

Roosevelt and Smith Forces in Final Drives for Democratic Votes.

Boston, April 24 (A.P.).—Rival Democratic forces, championing the presidential candidacies of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith, launched intensive last hour drives today to secure for their candidate the State's 36 convention votes in the Massachusetts primary Tuesday.

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, speaking at a Roosevelt rally, expressed the belief that Smith eventually would indorse the leadership of Roosevelt.

Conceding that Smith was the man whom Massachusetts preferred, Mayor Curley said it was admitted that the rest of the country would not accept him. He said the former New York Governor was "being led to political slaughter" by his friends.

Despite the bitterness of the Democratic campaign, political observers tonight predicted a light vote. While the Smith-Roosevelt battle has raged for several weeks, the Republicans have had serene sailing, with delegates pledged to President Hoover unopposed in all but three of the State's fifteen districts. Massachusetts will have 34 votes at the Republican national convention.

MT. VERNON BARRING OF GROUP ATTACKED

Trinidad Citizens Protest Turning Children Away; Urge U. S. Control.

Advocating Government control of Mount Vernon and an open Congressional investigation into its present ownership and operation, the Trinidad Citizens Association, through its representative, W. H. Lowder, yesterday protested the recent action of H. H. Dodge, superintendent of the grounds, in refusing to admit a group of 42 children without payment of the usual fee.

According to Mr. Lowder, a group of orphaned children from the Jewish Foster Home were turned away from the gates of Mount Vernon because the home's appropriation was not sufficient to cover the cost of admission. Only one day in the week—Saturday—officials of the home were told, are children admitted free of charge.

Fee of 25 Cents Charged.

Mr. Lowder pointed out that under present conditions children under 10 years of age are allowed to enter the grounds without payment. All others, except on Saturday, are required to pay a fee of 25 cents, he said. On numerous other occasions, Mr. Lowder declared, children taken to Mount Vernon by charitable organizations have been refused free admittance.

The Trinidad Association has been active for some time in the fight to place Mount Vernon under Federal control. It advocates free admission to children at all times.

Money Making Park.

Under the present system, the association said, the shrine is being operated as a "money-making amusement park." The Mount Vernon Ladies Association of the Union, under whose management the grounds are operated, realize a sum of $250,000 a year, the association declared. This sum is obtained from visitors from all sections of the country who come to Mount Vernon, it was pointed out.

Mr. Lowder said the representatives of the Trinidad Association plan to go before Gov. Pollard of Virginia to register a protest and ask for an investigation by the State Legislature.

Although the House public lands committee plans to "pigeonhole" a bill providing Government control of Mount Vernon, Mr. Lowder said, his organization will fight to the limit to place "a national shrine under national supervision."

Six Uninstructed Democrats Chosen; G. O. P. Refuses Recognition.

Panama City, April 24 (A.P.).—Democrats of the Canal Zone, which has no vote in presidential elections, selected six uninstructed delegates today for the national Democratic convention at Chicago in June.

The Canal Zone convention, attended by 172 persons, also adopted resolutions favoring ultimate Statehood for Porto Rico and bona fide residence as a qualification for appointment of all Territorial governing officials.

The Republican party does not recognize delegates from the Canal Zone.

The yacht also had F. H. Lackman, Consolvo's skipper, and three members of the crew aboard. The cabin boy and cook, it was reported, had been left ashore when the Marcon went to sea Thursday.

Although associates of Consolvo claimed that the presence of the boat in Virginia waters held no significance, and that it had been driven in because of threatening weather, all Norfolk was tense with excitement and expectation of dramatic developments within the next few days.

Two other occurrences of significance were reported. The tug Owl, used as an aircraft tender, was standing by for orders, and Capt. Kenneth Whitting, commandant of the naval base from which Curtis has made frequent trips in the past five weeks, took a short seaplane trip this morning. A naval plane was also held in readiness to take off at a moment's notice.

Inactivity at Hopewell.

Hopewell, N. J., April 24 (A.P.).—The fifty-fourth day since the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby passed without a visible sign of activity at the flier's Sourland Mountain estate.

The reduced number of automobiles in the family garage led to the belief that several members of the household were absent, but there was nothing else to substantiate such an opinion.

Coincident with the removal during next week of the State police headquarters it appears likely that Mrs. Lindbergh, who is an expectant mother, would depart for the Englewood, N. J., home of her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow.

In a special police bulletin, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf explained one of Mrs. Morrow's few absences from the Lindbergh house since the kidnaping.

Mrs. Morrow's Trip Here.

"Mrs. Morrow went to Washington," he said, "at the invitation of custodians of Amherst College to attend the opening of the Folger-Shakespeare Library. Up to the time of his death, Senator Morrow was chairman of the plans and scope committee of the library and she attended in memory of the senator, who accomplished so much for this library.

"Upon completion of the ceremony, Mrs. Morrow returned. There was no other purpose or procedure on the trip."

The final sentence was in response to published reports that Mrs. Morrow desired to intercede at Washington to carry out the proposal of Al Capone to effect the baby's return should he be released from prison.

Two Held in Kidnaping Deposited Large Sums

Downingtown, Pa., April 24 (A.P.). A man and a woman who were taken into custody for questioning in connection with the Lindberg kidnaping case Friday have given conflicting statements as to their whereabouts the night the baby was stolen, police said today, and have recently deposited large sums of money in banks in several cities.

The couple, who described themselves as Albert Lacher and Miss Edith Crebbe, of Philadelphia, were charged formally with disorderly conduct today and are being detained for further examination. They have been held in jail since Friday night. They retained an attorney today, but no request has been made for a hearing.

South Africa Holding American as Kidnaper

Johannesburg, South Africa, April 24 (A.P.).—An American citizen, who was arrested Friday on advice of New York police, who labeled him as a kidnaper and dangerous character, was still unidentified by the Johannesburg criminal investigation department today.

Department officials said they had no knowledge that the man was Martin Depew, sought as the kidnaper of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer of Kansas City, Mo. The man was arrested by four detectives, who found him in bed. He was a member of the crew of an American ship which arrived recently at Durban.

Kindness to Policemen To Be Tried in Evanston

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—Out in suburban Evanston, where gentility is the watchword, they're going to try being kind to policemen.

Alderman Robert E. James, ambassador of good will between police and public, announced the plan tonight. If citizens would be more kind and considerate of policemen, he said, then the officers probably would be more obliging and less gruff.

He suggested particularly that people stop calling policemen such names as "flatfeet," "cops" and "bulls." And it also would be a great help, he said, if residents would get acquainted with traffic police and patrolmen, "just to help along the friendly spirit."

Arrests with gentle courtesy, gentle chidings instead of scoldings for taffic law violations, and every policeman a smiling one—that is Evanston's goal.

AUTO PLANTS PLACE ORDERS FOR STEEL

Ford Begins Volume Output of Eights as Light Models of Chrysler Spurt.

Cleveland, April 24 (A.P.).—Ford has started steel purchases for volume production, the magazine Steel said today, with the bulk of the business going to mills at Youngstown, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cleveland.

A schedule of about 42,000 eights has been adopted for May by Ford, the magazine said, and sheets, strip, fender stock and practically all the required steel products except those rolled in the Ford Steel Works were ordered. The amount was believed to have been about 35,000 tons.

While other districts were unchanged last week, northern Ohio mills put the national steelmaking pace up 1 point, to 23 per cent. Staggered operations at Buffalo indicate a recession there this week and some capacity is being dropped at Chicago, but the automobile business promises at least to hold last week's improvement.

Detroit Outlook Brighter.

"Ford is not alone in heartening Detroit," the magazine continued. "General Motors is understood to have achieved close to 80 per cent of its objective in its recent sales drive, and Chrysler, especially in the Plymouth and De Soto lines, is moderately strong. Chevrolet has scheduled 60,000 cars for May, 15,000 more than in April.

"Throughout the week's steel news there is a liberal sprinkling of specific inquiry of an encouraging nature. More reference is made, however, to the stringent character of credit, which is restricting even ordinary purchases of steel—a condition which the Federal Reserve system's policy of pumping out more credit may alleviate."

50,000 Tons of Plate.

Bids go in June 15 on 50,000 tons of plate steel outlet pipe for the Hoover Dam project. A fresh inquiry for 5,000 tons for barges has been made at Pittsburgh. Eighteen thousand tons of steel is pending for a postoffice at Philadelphia.

The New York Central Railroad took bids on its track fastening requirements and formal allocation of 28,000 tons of rails may be near. The Pennsylvania rail requirement, not believed imminent, will be for 25,000 tons, the magazine said.

The iron and steel composite of steel stands unchanged at $29.74, as does the finished steel index, at $47.62, but the scrap composite is off 9 cents to $7.70.

SENATE SHORT PROBE MAY GO TO NEW YORK

said Meehan's participation in the pool was through his wife.

Senators Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, and Glass (Democrat), Virginia, showed strong resentment of this practice, because a market specialist in a stock has confidential information on all pending orders to buy or sell that particular security.

Brookhart said yesterday he favored legislation to prevent specialists from divulging this information to market traders. He suggested it could be accomplished through Federal control of the mails and interstate communication.

Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, testified recently that for a specialist to give out such information was a violation of stock market rules.

Meehan has been subpenaed by the committee, but has not been located. A spokesman yesterday notified the committee Meehan was in the South and is now on his way to Washington and would be ready to appear whenever wanted.

(United Press.)

The Senate committee investigating the New York stock market will broaden its inquiry to include international operations and will go carefully into transactions that led to the collapse of the Kreuger-Toll share prices, Senator Smith D. Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, told the United Press last night.

"The committee most certainly will investigate the Kreuger-Toll collapse," Brookhart said. "We feel that we have only touched on the things that are happening in Wall street."

Asked from what angle the committee would approach the inquiry into international operations, Brookhart said:

"We will approach it from the only angle possible and that is to go thoroughly into the whole matter and bring everything we can out for scrutiny."

The three couples live within a mile of one another, in the farm homes where they first started housekeeping. All have great-grandchildren.

JOBLESS OF WORLD AT LEAST 20,000,000

Geneva Figures Show That One of Every 28 Is Deprived of Living.

Geneva, April 24 (U.P.).—One out of every 28 persons in the world has been deprived of the means of existence by the unemployment crisis, Albert Thomas, director of the international labor office, disclosed today in his annual report.

The report was based on figures, gathered by his office, showing that there were between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000 persons wholly unemployed last year.

"This means that some 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 peraons are deprived of the means of existence arising from their own activity or that of those upon whom they are dependent," Thomas said.

On the basis of the League of Nations estimate of the world's population, 2,000,000,000, the Thomas report showed that 7 out of every 200 persons are suffering from the effects of unemployment.

Thomas painted a dark picture of 1931 as a result of study of the index numbers on wholesale prices, production, industrial profits and national incomes.

Wholesale prices in the United States, Great Britain and France already have fallen below prewar figures, he said. Taking the year 1913 as an index basis of 100, he estimated that the index average in America fell from 139 for the first three-quarters of 1929 to 112 for December, 1930, to 100 in June, 1931, and down to 95 in December.

Effect of 'Vicious Circle.'

The British average fell from 137 in 1929 to 109 in December, 1930, and to 99 in September of 1931.

In France, the figures indicated that at the end of last year wholesale prices, reduced to the basis of the prewar gold franc, were only four-fifths of the 1913 average.

After showing that production figures in certain staple commodities had declined sharply, Thomas endeavored to prove that the combined slump in prices and falling off in production brought a heavy decrease in incomes, which has started a vicious circle and brought about a further fall of prices and production through reduced purchasing power.

Policeman Dines And Makes Arrest

Man in Charge of Tenth Precinct Broadcasts Is Opportunist.

Sergt. G. R. Douglas, in charge of police radio broadcasts at the Tenth Precinct station, very seldom leaves his post while on duty—when he does he accomplishes things.

Sergt. Douglas last night took a half hour off to obtain a snack of food. He was relieved by a fellow officer and went directly to a restaurant at Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest.

After satisfying his appetite, the sergeant prepared to return to duty. As he left the cafe, a man entered and his actions aroused the policeman's suspicions. A few words were exchanged and a search of the man's pockets revealed a revolver and a flashlight. At the station house he said he is Lawrence Beden, of 3411 Brown street northwest. He was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

LAST ALIENIST FILES FINDINGS ON MASSIE

Kahahawai confessed he attacked Mrs. Massie.

A member of the defense counsel today pointed out the four defendants are jointly indicted for murder and that Massie has explained the circumstances of the slaying for the defense.

"If he was insane when the shot was fired, then no crime was committed and Massie is innocent," the defense attorney said.

"If Massie is innocent, then the other three are innocent too."

Counsel for both sides worked today over mass instructions to hand the court tomorrow morning, from which Judge Charles S. Davis will select the jury's orders.

Meanwhile, with the climax of the hearing reached and passed in the testimony of Lieut. Massie and Mrs. Massie, the City of Honolulu picked up the subject of the visiting and local alienists as the main topic of conversation.

It was learned also there had been some informal criticism among physicians attending the annual meeting of the Hawaiian Medical Society of the use of expert testimony in the case.

It was pointed out that each side had been able to obtain alienists from more than 2,000 miles away, who saw eye-to-eye with their employers.

of the night seeking the bodies of Gordon and Ryan. Gordon's body was found late today.

A heavy rain that began about noon and continued the rest of the day turned the already muddy pit into a pool of muck, further retarding efforts to find Ryan's body.

A third large slide occurred soon after the second. The large crowd that gathered was believed to have been partially responsible. Several of the spectators, crowded on the very edge of the pit, suffered minor injuries in the third cave-in.

PRELATE CONFIRMS 100 CHILDREN HERE

Dr. Hart Tells Radio Audience of Problem Needing Catholic Action.

The Most Rev. Dr. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, confirmed 100 children yesterday at Immaculate Conception Church, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney is pastor. The prelate was enthusiastic in his praise of the work of the Brothers of Mary among the boys and of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul among the girls in the preparation of this occasion.

The archbishop was assisted by the Rev. F. X. Cavanagh, the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, the Rev. Stanley Czyz and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese. He was celebrant also at solemn benediction, assisted by the Rev. Chester Czyz as deacon and the Rev. Father Mathias, of the Friars of the Atonement, as subdeacon. Fred Simonds, H. J. Froehlich, Felix Hele, Robert Berberich, Mrs. Edith Foerg, Miss Anna Marie Cole, Mis Bernardine Happ and Mrs. Robert Berberich were sponsors for the children.

The Washington Catholic radio hour was broadcast from the church at 5 o'clock yesterday, the preacher being the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Hart, associate professor of philosophy at Catholic University and director of the Washington branch of the Catholic Evidence Guild of America. Father Hurney, who directs these weekly broadcast services, presided. The blessing of the sick and the solemn Lourdes procession took place at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes in the church. Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Mary O'Donoghue were soloists under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, organist. Miss Ann Arlen was violin soloist.

Catholic Action Explained.

Dr. Hart said in part:

"A demand that all men hear the answer as to what is the truth about Catholicism we may conceive as the task of what we call 'Catholic Action.' I can do no better at the outset than to quote from an encyclical of our holy father, Pius XI, the great Pontiff of Catholic Action, for a definition of the terms: 'Catholic action consists not merely of the pursuit of personal Christian perfection, which, however, is before all others its first and greatest end, but it also consists of a true apostolate in which Catholics of every social class participate, coming thus to be united in thought and action around those centers of sound doctrine and multiple social activity, legitimately constituted, and, as a result, aided and sustained by the authority of the bishops'—in a word, a pursuit of personal perfection and a lay apostolate united with the clergy for the bringing of Catholic truth to all the world, for its information, at least, and as a way of life and action, if that happy result may follow.

"In line with this brief consideration of the call to Catholic action, to a Catholic lay apostolate, to a full functioning of the Catholic layman in the life of the church, may I bespeak an interest in the recently formed Catholic Evidence Guild of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, with divisions here in Washington at Immaculate Conception Hall, and in Baltimore. Many of you have undoubtedly heard of the parent Catholic Evidence Guild of England, founded fifteen years ago, just after the World War. Here, as there, the guild is a group of Catholic laymen and laywomen who take up a careful and intensive study and training, under clerical directors, upon a single subject of Catholic doctrine and praceice, which is assigned to each of them. Thereafter they are licensed by a board of clergy to speak and to answer questions upon their subject in public parks and streets, or radio, or institutions, or wherever opportunity presents itself, before either Catholic or non-Catholic audiences.

Seeks Better Understanding.

In a single word, it is a bureau of information seeking to form an intelligent public opinion upon things Catholic, for the building up of better understanding and peaceful relations at least between citizens of a community, if not for the conversion to the fullness of religious truth. The guild in this diocese is united with similar organizations in New York, Boston, Albany and elsewhere for the founding of similar guilds in other parts of the country. Today, every part of England has its guild and its several hundred speakers carry on this work practically every evening and all day Sunday throughout the year. Needless to say, this form of Catholic Action has the entire approval of his excellency, Archbishop Curley, who has recently appointed a board of clergy who will license the speakers when they have shown themselves proficient."

Dr. Hart pointed out that 75 years ago the Catholic Church was confronted with the fact that public education of her children meant the exclusion of religious training. As a result, there is now a parochial school system caring for more than 2,000,000 children. "Today Catholic Action asks the whole public to go to school in the matter of truth about the Catholic Church," Dr. Hart said. When the public today, like Pilate of old, asks, "What is the truth?" it is the duty of Catholics to be ready to answer, the Catholic University professor said in conclusion.

Two Plaques Unveiled In Rome Honor Pope

Rome, April 24 (A.P.).—Two marble plaques were unveiled today in the Missionary College of Propaganda Fide (Propagation of the Faith), one commemorating the Pope's visit a year ago today and the other his words reminding students of the "splendor of their mission."

Pope Pius left Vatican City last April 24 to inaugurate the college, which was built by a contribution of $1,500,000 from Cardinal Mundelein's Chicago archdiocese. His exit was the second of any Pope from Vatican City since 1870.

DR. DWIGHT MARSH DIES AT AGE OF 77

Retired Research Worker Is Discoverer of Animal Plant Diseases.

Dr. C. Dwight Marsh, a resident of Washington since 1905 and the discoverer of animal plant diseases, died here unexpectedly Saturday night. He was 77 years old.

Engaged by the Department of Agriculture to study the loco problem of the Western live stock ranges, Dr. Marsh discovered and demonstrated that the disease was the result of the animals eating certain plants. Subsequent studies led to the discovery of the effects of poisonous plants on animals.

He directed the studies of poisonous plants for the Department of Agriculture until about a year and a half ago, when, after two extensions because of age, he retired. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Washington Academy of Sciences, the Cosmos Club, of other scientific organizations and of the Mount Pleasant Citizens Association, of which he was president for a year.

Native of Massachusetts.

Dr. Marsh was born in Hadley, Mass., December 20, 1855. He graduated from Amherst College in 1877, and was awaraded the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Chicago in 1904. Amherst College conferred on him the honorary degree of doctor of science in 1927, in recognition of his accomplishments in scientific studies at the college.

After his graduation from college Dr. Marsh spent about a year at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., and then entered the teaching profession. For 20 years he was professor of biology at Ripon College, Ripon, Wis. During the latter part of this period he was dean of the college.

He was responsible for the development of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, and in recognition of this he was elected for one term president of the academy. While in Wisconsin he became interested in the study of plankton life of fresh-water lakes. This work developed into an important study of the minute organisms that serve as the food of fishes.

Lectures in Milwaukee.

He served for a time as secretary of the Wisconsin geological and natural history survey, was lecturer in biology at the Milwaukee Medical College, and was active in civic affairs.

Dr. Marsh is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Florence Wilder, whom he married in 1883; two sons, Hadleigh Marsh, of Bozeman, Mont., and C. Wilder Marsh, of Gloucester, N. J., and a sister, Mrs. Emily M. Wilcoxon, of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home, 1882 Monroe street northwest. Burial will be at Hardley, Mass., the ancestral home of the Marsh family since 1860.

National Symphony Seeks P.-T.A. Help

Meetings to Be Held This Week Will Hear Plans to Aid Orchestra.

Plans to enlist the aid of the 13,000 members of the District's Parent-Teacher Associations in support of the National Symphony Orchestra will be perfected at meetings today, tomorrow and Wednesday of presidents and delegates of the various school P.-T. Aims of the orchestra were indorsed by the P.-T. A. congress last week, after they were described by Conductor Hans Kindler. At eight children's concerts, given last year at Central High School auditorium, attendance increased from 350 at the first to more than 1,500 at the final concert.

The body of Miss Virginia M. Cromwell, employe of the Veterans' Administration, who was killed in an automobile accident on the Washington-Richmond highway Saturday, was sent last night to her parents' home in Morganfield, Ky.

Damon C. Abel, of 3945 Connecticut avenue, driver of the car in which Miss Cromwell was a passenger, and Earle Heatwole, of Mount Vernon Hills, Va., whose car was in collision with that of Abel, were released under $1,000 bond for their appearance at a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, of Fairfax County, on May 3.

OLD FRIGATE TO AID MASONIC CEREMONY

Constitution to Be Sent to Alexandria as Tribute to Washington.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

One of the most attractive features of the ceremonies on May 12 attending the dedication of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple in Alexandria will be the return to that historic city of the old frigate Constitution, advices having been received from the Secretary of the Navy to the effect that the old ship will arrive in Alexandria the morning of May 11 and remain until the afternoon of May 12. She will be accompanied by her tender, the Grebe.

Immediately upon the declaration of war between the United States and Great Britain, in 1812, the Constitution sailed from Alexandria and began the cruise which was destined to make her the most famous of all American war vessels. The valorous history of successive victories of this wooden frigate provides for it a perpetual niche in the annals of American history, and its conquests of enemy craft, under the able leadership of fearless commanders at different times make the ship an inspiration to courage and accomplishment to not only the youth of the land but those long past their majority. She is an American tradition. The fact that her restoration has largely been accomplished by contributions of school children, the generosity of organizations, and private donations, makes her a craft that is truly the property of the citizens of this land.

The dedication of the Memorial to Washington in Alexandria is a just tribute to one who enriched the past and made possible the present greatness of the Nation. It is, therefore, fitting that this craft, which was afloat during the life of Washington, and which made possible the preservation of the Nation for which he was largely responsible, will silently float on the protected waters of the historic Potomac at this time. It is only natural that the dedication committee is much gratified that the Navy Department recognizes the importance of the celebration by sending its greatest treasure to Alexandria. Chairman Barrett, of the dedication committee, is endeavoring to have the Constitution kept in Alexandria until after Saturday, May 14, so that the school children of Alexandria and vicinity may have an opportunity of visiting her.

In addition to the Constitution and the Grebe, three other Government vessels will lie in the harbor from May 11 until May 13. These are the Coast Guard cutters Mendota, Savannah and Apache. These vessels are approximately 150 feet in length and are of the latest type. From this fleet of five vessels, the old and the new, a presidential salute of 21 guns will be fired at 1 o'clock on May 12, announcing the arrival at the Memorial of the President of the United States.

Elihu Kitson, aged 88 years, died Saturday at his home at Franconia, Fairfax County, and the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Beulah Church, Franconia. Burial will be in the cemetery at that place. The deceased is survived by several children.

Stolen Alexandria Auto Recovered From Water

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 24.—Fear that a car found in a quarry hole here this morning brought death to one or more persons seemed dispelled tonight when it was established that the automobile had been stolen in Washington at Tenth and E streets Friday night and that the owner, E. W. Harris, of Alexandria, Va., was safe. Police, after satisfying themselves of Harris' safety, turned to the theory that the car had been purposely ditched by the man who stole it.

No effort was being made tonight to extend a search. The car was lifted from its landing place in 30 feet of water this morning by cable. A youth, fishing-bound, discovered it. The report of the find, with rumors that as many as five persons had been in the car, sent hundreds of people to the scene today.

Motorist Seized After Police Chase

Paul N. Gardner Taken in Montgomery in Trying to Escape.

After trying to evade two Eighth Precinct policemen, who had stopped him for speeding, Paul N. Gardner, son of Dr. Henry Gardner, of 27 West Kirke street, Chevy Chase, Md., was arrested yesterday after he crossed the District line into Montgomery County.

Gardner was stopped on Connecticut avenue by the Eighth Precinct police. He was told to follow the men to the station. Instead, police said, he sped north on Connecticut avenue to Bradley lane and then to Wisconsin avenue. The police were in pursuit.

In turning to Wisconsin avenue, he drove over a curb. Montgomery County Policeman Windsor Poole arrested him for reckless driving.

Capital Historical Group Plants Trees at Abingdon

Three trees have been planted by the District of Columbia branch of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities at Abingdon, the home purchased by John Parker "Jackie" Custis in 1778 from the Alexandria family of Virginia, and the birthplace of Nellie Custis.

The first tree was planted in honor of Miss Virginia Miller, the first director and founder of the Washington branch of the association; the second in memory of Mrs. George Tully Vaughan, second director, and the third in memory of George Washington, who is believed to have encouraged his stepson in selection of the site on the banks of the Potomac.

Abingdon is located on the new Mount Vernon boulevard, between Washington and Alexandria, about 200 yards above the river's edge. It is almost directly opposite Hains Point and commands a view of the mouth of the Anacostia River. Two large brick chimneys and charred trunks of a grove of oak trees are all that remain of the original home, which burned less than two years ago.

Mrs. E. Rust Smith, present director of the association, led in the tree planting ceremony. Maj. Gen. Frank B. Cheatham accepted the trees on behalf of the Government. Delos Smith, author of "The Abingdon of Fairfax County," in the Daughters of the American Revolution magazine for June, 1929, told of the history of the home.

"Mr. Zero" Announces He Will Open One Near White House.

Announcing that he would open a "one to ten cent tavern" within a few blocks of the White House in the near future, Urbain Ledoux, better known as "Mr. Zero, benefactor of the poor," yesterday declared that he would guarantee a "down-and-outer" a "full-to-the-gizzard meal for a nickel."

Ledoux, now in New York, says that he will provide a meal with fancy trimmings for ten cents. In New York he negotiated with Red Cross leaders for bread which is to be made from Farm Board wheat recently ordered distributed to the unemployed. He also inquired about the sale of superfluous stocks of army clothing to charities at reduced costs.

Ledoux also advocated the wearing of shorts during the summer months by the unemployed.

MONTGOMERY MAN, 77, HANGS HIMSELF

Body Is Found Suspended From Ladder in Barn at County Home.

Perigrine C. Connell, 77 years old, a former driver of the Brookville-Baltimore stage, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself from a ladder in a barn at the Montgomery County Home near Rockville, Md.

Before stepping from a haystack, Connell adjusted a towel about his neck so that the rope with which he hanged himself would not lacerate the skin on his neck. He had tied the rope to one of the upper rungs of a 20-foot ladder before he stepped from the hay pile.

He was a brother of Addie Connell, 79 years old, an inmate of the Methodist Home for the Aged and Orphans. Addie Connell was separated from her twin sater, Emma, by death on February 15 at the home. The sisters had never been separated for more than a few hours since their birth.

Connell had been in the habit of walking to Rockville each morning. His absence was not noted yesterday when he was missing for several hours. Albert Meiser discovered his body yesterday afternon when he went to the barn for eggs. Connell was pronounced dead by Dr. George E. Lewis, of Rockville, who said he would issue a certificate of suicide.

In addition to his sister Addie, he is survived by another sister, Mrs. Floyd Farber, of Silver Spring, Md.

ENCOURAGING DEPRESSION.

Various economy programs in Congress are approaching a head-on collision. The House economy committee is about to submit a bill which is in direct conflict with the Senate's rule providing for a horizontal 10 per cent cut in all appropriation bills. Included in the House committee's bill is the provision for an 11 per cent cut in Federal salaries above $1,000. The President's plan for a furlough to Federal workers will be offered by Republicans as a substitute for the committee's proposal.

Neither the House nor Senate is taking any steps to economize by striking out huge appropriations for projects which have been attached to the Treasury outlets by logrolling methods. Chipping and chiseling here and there, instead of lopping off immense unnecessary projects, is the method employed in each branch of Congress. Cruel hardship is to be imposed upon underpaid Federal workers by either plan under contemplation in the House, while the Senate's 10 per cent cut falls most heavily upon Federal personnel and will increase public unemployment.

If the House plan for salary reductions should prevail, universal wage-cutting throughout American industry may be expected at once. Organized labor faces a struggle. In the opinion of some economists a shakedown in wages all along the line is necessary if business is to recuperate. They reason that business can not recover if it must pay wages on the scale of 1929. Nevertheless, the administration, taking the broader national interest into consideration, has stubbornly resisted the tendency to reduce wages in industry, and its influence will be exerted to dissuade Congress from taking the lead in wage-cutting. General wage reduction will be followed, of course, by reduced consumption and discouragement of all industries which are striving to sell goods. Economies in production resulting from more efficient methods will go for nothing if wage-earners are unable to buy. Viewed nationally, the House program for salary reduction is unquestionably a move for prolongation of the depression.

The best way out of the situation that has arisen in Congress is to cancel all proposals for reduction of Federal pay. The House committee proposal for the 11 per cent cut, the administration's furlough plan, and the Senate's arbitrary 10 per cent cut in appropriation bills should all be discarded. The national sense of stability will be enhanced if the Government sets its face against the defeatist idea of reducing the pay of workers who are already underpaid.

True economy at this juncture does not consist in a surrender to the forces of adversity. The depression does not need any extra encouragement from Congress to work havoc with the welfare of the people.

PHILIPPINE POLICY.

While selfish interests are at work in the United States, trying to sever the tie between this country and the Philippine Islands, before the Filipino people are capable of maintaining stable institutions by themselves Gov.-Gen. Theodore Roosevelt has inaugurated a policy designed to bring the islands to a status of economic independence. In his recent inaugural address Gov.-Gen. Roosevelt said:

> Above all, we should work to make the islands as close to self-sufficient agriculturally and industrially as circumstances permit. Gifted by nature with a diverse climate, a fertile soil and great natural wealth, there is no reason why the islands should not grow the necessities of life for their own people. It is necessary that they should do so in order to form the proper economic basis for what the future holds. Our constant endeavor should be directed towards bringing this to pass.

Since the Philippines have been under the American flag they have made remarkable progress. Gov.-Gen. Roosevelt gives them credit for more rapid advancement than any other part of the civilized globe in the last 30 years. Roads have been constructed. Sanitary water systems, telephones, postal service and similar essentials of modern civilization have undergone intensive development. Educational facilities have been widely established. Phenomenal economic progress has also been made, yet the people have not reached a condition of self-maintenance.

Economically, the islands have become steadily more dependent upon the United States. Their facilities of production have been developed with a view of exporting a few crops to this country, instead of supplying the Filipinos' own needs. The sugar industry, for example, has been widely developed in recent years, in spite of the fact that it is dependent almost wholly upon free trade with America.

If the Filipinos expect independence, they must reverse this tendency to lean upon Uncle Sam. Gov.-Gen. Roosevelt intends to use the influence of his office to promote a diversification of interests and thus make the islands as nearly self-sustaining as may be. His policy will put the Filipino people to the test. If they are unable to look beyond the present advantage of free trade with America, independence would be only a snare for them.

Gov.-Gen. Roosevelt's plan stands out in sharp contrast to the bungling scheme to cut the Philippines adrift which was adopted by the House of Representatives. While Congress plays football with the Philippine independence issue, the administration is making a constructive effort to prepare the islands for ultimate self-government.

THE CRITICAL PERIOD.

From various different angles the next few weeks may prove to be the most crucial period of the depression. Powerful forces to arrest deflation and give business a chance to move forward have been brought into play. Strong corporations and industries have advanced boldly against the deflationary trend, staking their future on the belief that the American people will begin buying if products and prices are made sufficiently attractive. It remains to be seen whether the people will rally to support these movements or hesitate and thus invite the return of the forces of depression.

The most constructive element in the economic situation is the end of the bank failure epidemic. In March only 45 banks in the entire country closed their doors, a remarkable improvement over 342 failures in January. Deposits in the banks failing last month are about equal to the deposits of banks that were reopened during that period. Not since the depression began has the bank situation been so nearly stabilized.

The improved condition of the banks is not yet reflected in the business or industrial situation. Liquidation of loans continues. Unless this increased credit, made possible by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Glass-Steagall act, is pumped out into industry and commerce, the flood of deflation will certainly break out again and carry the whole country deeper into the mire of depression. This is a critical transition period from which the country must move in one direction or the other.

The Federal Reserve Board is doing its utmost to cheapen credit and force its use. Government bonds are being purchased by the board at the rate of nearly $100,000,000 per week. Banks receive currency for these bonds, thus putting them into a position where they must either lend money to commercial borrowers or lose interest on their holdings. No bank can remain in business very long by merely holding currency in its vaults. The Federal reserve policy should result in an expansion of credit, which is equivalent to an increase in money, and, consequently, a rise in prices.

It is obvious, however, that this plan will not operate unless the banks pass their increased money and credit on to the people and the people spend it. An unwilling public can not be forced into a recovery movement without grave danger of upsetting the whole financial structure. The cooperation of banks, of business and of all the people is essential to bring stability out of the present chaos.

The volume of currency might be doubled without changing the situation, if the people refused to do business. Credit might be multiplied several fold and yet it would remain ineffective if it did not pass out of the banks. Consequently, no improvement can be expected until the people themselves begin to live and buy in a normal manner. It is impossible for industry to create more jobs, if the people refuse to buy the products of industry. All that the Federal Reserve Board can do is to give the public, including all business enterprises, a chance to turn and fight its way back to prosperity.

Failure of this credit expansion movement would be fraught with disastrous results. Another orgy of deflation would be inevitable, and pessimism would probably bring disorder. Drastic measures would doubtless be necessary to deflate the dollar and force prices up. Such practices are always dangerous, and might ruin those whose engagements are based upon the dollar as it is now valued.

The public ought to know the dismal alternative to success of the credit expansion movement. No recovery is possible without united effort. If such an effort is not made voluntarily, the hoarders of money and credit may find their riches crumbling in their hands.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

The presence of Progressive groups in both branches of the American Congress at times leads to some confusion, but it is nothing to compare with the diversity of parties that exists in many European assemblies. This is illustrated just now by the approach of the general elections to be held in France for the selection of members of the Chamber of Deputies on May 1, with the final ballot a week later. The chamber is composed of 612 members, and so far from counting a majority, no single party numbers 20 per cent of the total.

Between the radical Left, in the French lower House and the conservative Right, there exist so many different parties with shades of distinction in their socialistic principles, or their personal adherence, that only a political expert could classify them all. The coming election is unique in that for the first time since before the war the campaign does not turn upon the leadership of some hero of the world conflict. It is a situation in which the Socialist parties claim advantage for their spirited campaign for drastic armament and budget reductions.

The composition of the Chamber of Deputies at present is divided on the opposition Left among 10 Communists, 112 Second International Communists, 25 Independent Socialists and 107 Radical Socialists, a total of about 260, the last classification counting among its members Herriot, Chautemps and Deladier. The majority numbers a following of about 310, comprising 70 Moderate Radicals, Tardieu's 60 Republicans of the Left, and 180 deputies distributed among various groups from the Right Center to the extreme Right, led by Flandin, minister of finance; Louis Marin and Paul Renaud. Some 30 or 40 defy any specific category.

There are seventeen vacancies in the Chamber to be filled, no by-elections having been held in the six months preceding the general election. As there is no violent opposition issue directed against the government at this time, observers in France predict that the present administration is not in jeopardy. What may be expected is a shift in majority control from the Right to take in more of the Left Center, but not endangering the domination of Tardieu, Laval and their associates. Socialist prospects are said to have been materially injured by the failure of the Labor government in England. The radicals of the extreme Left are doomed because France sees her military and monetary security menaced by their principles. There appears to be only one policy upon which all parties agree, which is that if reparations are not forthcoming from Germany there will be no payments to the United States.

Prohibition is blamed for the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby. The time is about ripe to hold prohibition responsible for Wall Street's bear raids and Japan's joyride in Manchuria.

Thousands of letters are pouring in upon Congress with demands for economy. Senators are dispatching hasty replies by form telegrams at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Senator Johnson comes out for "normal relations" with Soviet Russia. Would he please define "normal relations" with assassins?

Senator Wheeler has gone West on a campaign tour, with the apparent intention of converting Gov. Roosevelt to bimetallism.

John J. Raskob is listed among the bears. But you can't blame Johnnie after what he lost on the Democratic party.

A CALL FOR COURAGE

From a Speech by Senator James Hamilton Lewis in the Senate, April 15.

We forget that we have always met the emergencies or crises, however they rose. We forget that in meeting them now we really make no unwarranted strain either upon the righteous credit of the country or put to test the proven patriotism of the citizen.

Let us compare for a second the situation of our own America with that of other lands which we regard a just parallel * * *

England has been going through distresses of nature similar to these described as our affliction. The eminent Senator from Idaho (Mr. Borah), * * * called attention to the situation of England, and the manner in which she sought restoration. We measure results from that time to this. But a month has elapsed, yet that government, England, with assets nothing to compare with the assets of the United States of America, has recovered herself to the extent that she announces she has balanced what she calls her budget, and reports this morning the equivalent of $500,000,000 in American money to her credit. In the meantime, the system by which she has produced this result is announced before the world, clearly defined and closely pursued.

We contemplate France. A short while past she was proclaimed by her statesmen as in a state of debt of nation and poverty of people that was hopeless of remedy. I deplore to say that many of her people were inclined always to present her in a very dark aspect; as entitled to the sympathy and contributions of the world. She chose to stand as a constant weeping "Niobe"—all tears. The fact remains, however, that now we have it that France has not only gathered herself together but, while yet with some increasing unemployment in special lines, yet she has lately lent seven billions of money to the five different countries with which she is allied, called "the little entente," and able to expend this money through the aid of American gold, which she in some way was able to manipulate, and in some form of financial mesmerism to control, as against the interests of the United States. This proud and superior people can now exclaim with glory, "Vive la France."

Italy, but a short while ago presumed to be severely, heavily burdened and in the depths, as a result of her war obligations and the condition of her people, in the last two weeks has negotiated a loan of millions and millions without asking one penny of the outside world. She financed that loan from her own people in the interior, showing the condition to which her people have really risen, and, by industry, art, and governmental devices, exhibited a supremacy to be envied by all rivals.

Shall it be said, Mr. President, with these inspiring examples about us, that this United States, because now under some burden, that this the master nation of all continents has no method by which it can recover itself? Has it no courage? * * * Has capacity vanished? Has originality buried itself beyond the hope of resurrection? Is there nothing of invention or construction in the United States of America to be applied by its officials, that has genius of thought, capacity of trial, ability to execute, or patriotism to endure that will provide a remedy for the situation such as this we all concede exists?

—Los Angeles Times.

We've Got Him Right Where We Want Him!

POST HASTE.

Since there is nothing important before Congress, Senator Wheeler goes to California to campaign for Gov. Roosevelt.

On the Pacific Coast the side-Wheeler senator will be as far removed from irritating effects on Eastern Democrats as possible.

Senator Robinson bespeaks recognition of the Russian bear. He would save its tender feelings from any suspicion that it was being classed with the horrid Wall street variety.

If Mr. Patman can inflate the currency without depreciating money values he will replace Dr. Kemmerer as money expert for the nations of the world.

Tomorrow the Nation will await with interest results from the unique contests in which two New York governors are being voted for in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

U. S. S. Constitution is back again, fit and trim. It is remarkable no proposal has been made in Congress that this stanch frigate, only 134 years old, shall supplant, as a matter of economy, one of the new cruisers.

Scientists believe they broadcast the music of the stars the other night. Rhapsodies induced by moonlight have caused much more commotion in the world.

Americans are finally aroused to the fact that if their taxation total amounts to nearly fourteen billions a year it can't all be cut out of the four billion Federal budget.

Japan, having eased herself out of two peace pacts, is preparing to desert the League of Nations. Who will be credulous enough to ask Japan to sign the next international agreement?

The cherry season will be succeeded by the apple blossoms, but fortunately our peaches are always with us.

The identical wording of comments on the tariff in the latest speeches of Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt doubtless is explained by their both being on Charlie Michelson's mailing list.

Every kind of crime organization is now charged to prohibition, but there are no laws against anticrime organizations.

One correspondent says the Chinese would probably prefer bolshevism to Japanese rule. Well, they now have large samples of both and can make up their minds.

From the Senate testimony it is evident that the Anaconda pool became infested with water moccasins.

PAUL HUDSON.

QUEEN VICTORIA REALLY ENGLISH

Though Queen Victoria was of almost unmixed German blood, and though, since her ancestor, George I, had come to sit on the throne of the Stuarts and the Tudors without a word of English to his tongue, but with the strongest distaste in his mind for the country and the people over which he ruled, there had entered into her veins not a drop of native blood, she was from the very first completely English, and combined the instincts of a queen with those of the ruling class. In his "As We Were," E. F. Benson says she married a German, she talked German in the bosom of her family, she interlarded her letters to her uncle with German words, she married her eldest daughter to a German. Yet she could roundly declare that she hated the Prussians. She hated Bismarck, whose pro-Prussian schemes she rightly divined to be directed against the prestige of England on the continent, and anything that threatened England made her see red. The prince consort, previous to his marriage, wanted to be made an English peer; nothing could be firmer than her refusal to grant it.

A Million Dollar Check Won't Make You Rich if It Is Not Good.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

BEYOND any doubt this country needs more money.

Even in normal times, commercial paper is used as a money substitute and each dollar of cash must do the work of about $10.

Mr. Hoover's campaign against hoarding is a confession that the country hasn't enough money.

Hoarding, it is conceded, ties up the Nation's capital and restricts credit.

But if the hoarding of a sum equal to less than 2 per cent of the Nation's annual business can have an effect so sinister, it is easy to believe that more money would do the country no harm.

If the Nation's business can be endangered or seriously injured by an epidemic of money-saving, something should be done to mend matters.

Nobody knows the exact sum of money in circulation. Certainly it is less than the official figure. Paper money is burned and otherwise destroyed. Money of all kinds goes down in ships. And a great quantity of it is held in foreign lands.

But whatever the sum in actual circulation, it is inadequate for present needs.

Concede that much. Concede further that the Government has enough surplus gold to justify and protect a billion or two of additional currency.

There is no divine rule to determine the amount of money this Nation should have in circulation. If more is needed, and there is gold to support it, let us have it.

But it is one thing to issue paper backed by gold and quite another to issue paper that has nothing behind it except a desire to get something for nothing.

You may not know finance, but you do know the American people. You know they get excited and run wild.

They lost faith in stocks and the resulting crash shook the earth.

They lost faith in banks and are still hiding money behind the barn.

They lost faith in law and the country began to resemble a madhouse.

They still have faith in money. That is the one bit of solid footing they have left.

Destroy that and you wreck the Nation.

If you want unsecured paper money, you can find it in the South. Collectors will sell you a pocket full of pretty Confederate money for a dime. Or that same dime will buy you a bale of German paper marks.

If you wish to eat in future, speak your piece now before this lunacy goes too far.

Once the poison is in the well, you can't get it out until the well is pumped dry.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Five-Day Week.

Los Angeles Times.

The arguments which President Hoover advances for the five-day week in the Federal Government service, in preference to a proposed salary cut of 11 per cent suggested by Representative McDuffie, chairman of the House economy committee will in the main appeal to the public as logical and reasonable. The President points out that the "staggered furlough" plan would save $80,000,000 to $82,000,000 a year, maintain the existing salary standard and afford employment to 25,000 to 35,000 substitute employes.

The salary-cut plan would save but $67,000,000 and force outright dismissal of about 10,000 employes, thus adding to unemployment. And it would not aid general adoption of the five-day week, regarded as an important method of spreading employment around, even after recovery.

Al Smith's Attack.

New Haven Journal-Courier.

Mr. Smith has delivered a rebuke which Gov. Roosevelt has egregiously invited; yet if he has almost certainly impaired Gov. Roosevelt's chances for nomination he has probably not improved his own; and he may very well have weakened the party itself for the electional race proper. His charge against the governor of demagogy, his onslaught upon candidates who seek public office by deluding the masses into class prejudice, is fair, but in his just fury at the meretricious tone of the governor's radio talk, Mr. Smith not alone overlooks its tolerably good economics, but repeats some economic fallacies of his own.

The Printing Bill.

Detroit News.

President Hoover's suggestion that Government printing bills should be scanned as one of the possible means of cutting Government expenses appeals to the common sense of every one who knows anything about the situation. There may be seemingly wasteful expenditures in Washington that can be defended because through them the Government is performing services not otherwise provided for in the country, but in its various publicity printshops, the departments in Washington are spending millions of tax moneys duplicating clumsily, wastefully and badly what the American press already is doing with extraordinary economy and efficiency.

History Repeating.

Springfield Republican.

Gov. Roosevelt's provocative reference to "shallow thinkers" and former Gov. Smith's counter-reference to "demagogues" recalls the progress of the quarrel between Taft and Theodore Roosevelt which ended in splitting the Republican party and in making Woodrow Wilson the war President.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virginia Reader Says Politicians Threaten Byrd Road Act in Counties Near Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Although the Byrd road act is generally considered one of the most popular, economical and beneficial measures enacted in Virginia for many years, certain would-be "leaders" in some of the counties, especially those adjacent to or near Washington, are attacking the act and endeavoring to persuade the citizens of these counties that it is to their advantage to vote for withdrawal from the provisions of the bill.

The bill provides for the taking over of all county roads into a secondary highway system, under the Virginia State Highway Department, thereby relieving the counties of expenses for the maintenance of these roads and affording a material reduction in taxes, since no assessment may hereafter be made for such purposes.

That the bill will result in a material reduction in the tax bill of every taxpayer is admitted by everyone, but these agitators attack the measure on the erroneous theory that remaining under the act will halt the present program of county development. No citizen of Virginia who has observed the steady and rapid progress made in road building and road maintenance by the Virginia State Highway Department in the past five years will give any serious consideration to such false alarms as those now being advanced by the few who are opposing the act.

Aside from the fact that the act calls a halt to the mounting tax levies which have been pyramided by State, county, municipal and Federal policies and puts into effect a substantial saving, every sane person in Virginia should know that the roads will be maintained under the act in a far more satisfactory manner than has been done or is possible by the several counties. Since the citizens of Virginia have been granted a real and substantial relief by the enactment of the Byrd road bill it behooves every taxpayer in the State to see to it that this great benefit is not lost through the efforts of a few semipoliticians. Utah Reader Asks About Chairman Raskob's Copper Interests.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of April 21, "Protection for Copper," relative to the necessity of a copper duty in order to protect the industry of twelve Western States against the inroads of the foreign copper peril, appears to have been timely, indeed, inasmuch as the Senate stock exchange investigation committee has brought into its picture the name of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, as one of the copper pool which came to the defense of the Anaconda Copper Co. in Wall street, which company is one of the group of importers referred to in your editorial, in which you say, "The peon labor of competitor lands has made it possible for American copper to be ousted from American use."

Naturally we people of the West, who now are suffering from the resultant suspension of our copper industry which normally mainly supports our population, are wondering what is the relationship between Democratic Chairman Raskob's position as defender of Anaconda Copper on the Wall Street Stock Exchange in the $32,000,000 copper pool, and the Democratic policy committee as defender of the Anaconda Copper Co.'s position in Congress.

Raleigh Reader Tells of North Carolina "Defaulted Bonds."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a letter to The Post, the writer includes North Carolina with the other States owing citizens of Great Britain "defaulted bonds." Some bonds were delivered by North Carolina to certain railroad presidents in 1869. Then on February 5, 1870, an act was ratified declaring all sales or transactions in these bonds after that date were void.

So, if any of the North Carolina repudiated bonds now held by subjects of Great Britain were obtained by them after that notice, the bonds are not recognized by the State. There are no other North Carolina bonds in default that I know of.

LOST CIVILIZATION.

Yucatan, a jungle land, where sisal fields are grown,
And yet a land of mystery, entombed in graven stone.
Time was her wise men read the stars and knew the moon and sun
And builded altars to their gods, as every race has done.

Now come the students to the tombs, the tourists to the gate.
They seek the long-locked vaults of Time to break and penetrate.
But sullen stands the tongueless stone amid the temple fair,
They see no more the worshipers who once assembled there.

Time was that Yucatan was rich with wisdom, art and skill,
But now her halls are desolate, her temples strangely still.
The scorpion and the coral snake in man-made grottoes dwell,
And slither quickly o'er the spot where culture rose and fell.

What happened at the height of pride and luxury and power?
Were millions hurried to their death in one terrific hour?
Did plague and pestilence destroy a people grown so great?
The answer hidden lies in Time where man can't penetrate.

Supreme Court Near End Of Term With Few Cases

Capone's Petition for Review and Oklahoma Oil Control Decisions Are Among Unusually Light Docket Toward Close of Session.

(Associated Press.)

In sharp contrast to the jammed docket of past years, the Supreme Court will listen this week to its last oral arguments of the term, with the probability that there will not be enough cases to occupy its time.

Cases which are not argued by Friday can not be decided at the present term.

During the final years of Chief Justice Taft's incumbency consideration of cases was pressed until the court was abreast of its work. Under Chief Justice Hughes this condition has continued.

The petition of Al Capone to set aside the penitentiary sentence imposed on him at Chicago for evasion of taxes will be submitted to the court, which will decide whether it will grant a review.

Today the court is expected to hand down opinions in many of the cases which have already been argued orally. Some of these are of Nation-wide importance.

Among them is the question of authority of States to regulate oil production to prevent waste, in a case from Oklahoma, and whether the meat packers will be permitted to modify their consent decree so as to handle other products than those of the slaughter houses.

Two pending cases affect the President, one whether the Senate has authority to withdraw its confirmation of a nomination after it has advised the President and the appointee, as in the case of Chairman George Otis Smith, of the Federal Power Commission, has qualified and entered on the discharge of his duties, and whether bills approved by the President after the final adjournment of Congress become laws.

Other pending cases involve whether the Texas law authorizing the Democratic State executive committee to decide who shall be permitted to vote at primary elections is constitutional when the committee prohibits Negroes from voting; the validity of the South Carolina tax on gasoline brought into the State; the legality of the Idaho tax on electricity generated in the State; five prohibition cases which challenge the right of the United States to confiscate under the tariff act and navigation laws vessels and automobiles which are used in bringing intoxicating liquor into the United States, and the right of a State to regulate shipments into it of products manufactured under Federal permits authorizing the use of alcohol.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Youth Discusses Love.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD:

Your readers have asked whether there exist any real men. To describe one real man to the approval of any woman is quite a delicate and arduous thing to do, especially if a man attempts to do the describing. Our mental levels arising from our studies, experiences, environments and heritage clash and crush and smash at the intersection of expression. When a man and a woman walk side by side and wed and mate for the sake of life and happiness, their reality has reached its pinnacle. Their aspirations, hopes, love and faith blend to make their reality, beautiful and grand. It is from this sweet garden of life, where these two united hearts throb with the manifold blessings of living, that we confuse reality and materiality. It is from this state of matrimony that most women weigh the reality of a man for the first time. Women think that men are real only when they can pay the bills, keep substantial bank accounts, and at the same time render the sweetest attention and fascinating devotion to their wives. Women think that their men are real only when they can protect, support and make them live comfortably. Women think that their husbands are real only when they are wise enough to keep painting a rosy future. It is here at the early stage of married life, or even before marriage, where inability to protect, support, dwarf the real man and rate him as though he were nothing but a fleeting cloud at the mercy of the winds.

Let me remind you, women, that all the married men I interviewed about marriage say that if they only could be bachelors again they would not marry. Matrimonial happiness only lasts a few months, according to them. And yet they are men materially successful and well educated. Nagging, fault-finding, answering useless questions, and accounting for every movement they make while away from their wives' sight, plus the tiresome business of ringing the counter for support are driving these husbands crazy. One of them said that if he earns $3, he gives his wife $2.50, and she still wants him to account for the 50 cents!

The ability to make a living and be a lover at the same time does not interfere with the real reality of man, nor can the capability to protect, to support a woman show his real manhood. Consider a great bachelor poet, who can see a thing in numberless ways and sees it beautifully. He sings of life nearer to the truth than anybody else can. He can look at a tiny bud or a smiling face and tell the world he has seen the promising hope of immortality. Although he may be too frail to protect or support a woman, do you doubt that he is extremely real? A strong man, whose mind is wholly in the adjustment of business and in the affection and protection of women, may be your only real man. Maybe you do not consider a sleepy, lazy youth, who has not awakened himself, thus far, to realize his importance, a real man, too. Please ask yourself, also, the qualities that make a real woman, besides your willingness to raise a baby.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALTHOUGH the terms have not been made public, and probably will not be, it has been learned from a reliable source that the Columbia Broadcasting System is to pay Station WJSV $20,000 annually for the use of the station for the first five years. The contract is said to call for two additional five-year periods. The rental terms will be increased to $40,000 a year after the first five years.

Indicative of the plans of Columbia is the conversation this writer had with William S. Paley, president of Columbia, when the latter first set his heart on Columbia having its own station in Washington.

"It is my desire and ambition," Mr. Paley declared at that time, "that Columbia should have a station here which should be in keeping with the dignity and importance of the Capital of the United States."

Because of certain local conditions, it undoubtedly took Mr. Paley considerably longer to acquire a station than he had expected, but now that this has been done, he will unquestionably endeavor to make up for lost time.

CONGRATULATIONS are being received by Lieut. Charles Benter from radio listeners following the House vote to allow the Navy to keep its band. Had the economy policy prevailed, the Navy Band would have been seriously jeopardized.

While the judges are at work in the task of selecting the winner of the Washington Post-RCA-Victor record contest, several of the typical recordings will be broadcast over Station WOL at 5:45 o'clock tonight. The winners of the contest will be announced later.

IN THE hour earlier shift caused by the daylight time schedule the Marine Band shut-in concert will be heard over WRC at 2 o'clock this afternoon instead of 3 o'clock.

The Marine Band, beginning Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock, will be heard each week over the Columbia Dixie network. This includes 16 Southern cities. Though the concerts will not be broadcast locally it will doubtless be possible to tune them in from outside.

A fee of about $150,000 was received by the Metropolitan Opera Co. for the privilege of broadcasting the opera.

STANLEY BELL, the announcer, tries to keep up with his next door neighbor, Fire Chief George S. Watson, in the matter of flossy automobiles. However, the chief is still ahead of Stanley in the color of his car.

Which is a reminder that Ed Wynn comedian, will play the role of fire chief in a new series "Ed Wynn and the Fire Chief Band" tomorrow (WRC, 8:30 p. m.)

REPRESENTATIVE CYRENUS COLE, of Iowa, arises to inquire:

"Are the American people willing to pay for their radio entertainment, or will they continue to pay for it by being persuaded to buy something they may not want?"

"There is a growing feeling of tiredness over much that now comes over the best set-ups in the air. Thousands of radios are turned off until the business announcers finish their tedious and almost vulgar diatribes," Representative Cole declared in the New York Times yesterday.

"Much of it is a reiteration that wrecks nerves. Of course, there are good programs furnished by advertisers who have some sense of respect for those who listen in. They are content to announce that they are the doners, without trying to describe the symptoms of imaginary diseases, or attempting to arouse appetities.

"But too much is the air filled with the vulgar drivel of hawkers and hucksters. The din, din, din, the clatter, clatter, clatter of vendors, all trying to collect from the people the money they pay for the privilege of using the various hook-ups. If the listeners could talk back it would sound like a revolt and a rebellion strong enough to wreck the transmitters.

"Sooner or later there must be devised some system by which the people can get what they want and pay for it themselves." Representative Cole concluded. "They are willing to pay now, if only some one will devise the way in which it can be done. If the air is to become the monopoly of those who have something to foist on the people, then the radio may prove to be something akin to a curse, and if may even break down ethical standards of life. Heaven forbid, that the radio must be a factor in the vulgarization of American life."

A QUESTION was recently asked in the "Today and Yesterday" program as to what songs the listener likes the best. At present two old favorites are leading, the first being "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and the second, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Already over 300 songs have been mentioned.

THE Glass bank bill will be the subject of an address by Frederick C. Walcott, senator from Connecticut, during the National Radio Forum (WRC, 9 p. m.). The senator has been a leader in the Senate's investigation of short selling on the New York Stock Exchange. * * * "The Mikado" will be revived by the Young Artists Light Opera Company (WRC, 2:45 p. m.) tomorrow. * * * Senator Millard E. Tidings will be heard tonight (WRC, 9:45 o'clock). * * * Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell will describe "Labrador After Forty Years" this afternoon (WMAL, 4:45 o'clock). * * * Achmed Abdullah, novelist and playwright, will be interviewed tomorrow (WMAL, 7 p. m.). * * * Ed Trautman's Sparkling Music will be heard at 9:15 o'clock over WRC, beginning tomorrow morning.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Gay and delightful are red touches on black. A chic dress of black crepe has collar and belt section of coral red lace. (A New York model.)

NEW YORK, April 24.—What do you think of the aviatrix costumes being offered by so many of the Parisian couturiers? I thought what you are thinking, at first—just a novelty, a whim of one or two designers. But when Mamzelle wrote from Paris that almost every house showed one or two of these outfits, I had to do some inquiring.

Seems that more and more young ladies are flying their own planes. Really flying them, not just for thrills, not for stunts, having no laurels in mind, let alone medals, but flying their own planes because of the speed and convenience of it.

And needs must have the proper clothes to wear while flying. Don't get the aviatrix costumes mixed up with the clothes one wears as pasengers, because there is a great difference. As an airplane passenger one wears any suitable traveling outfit, merely taking an extra top coat, no matter what the weather below, as it is always cooler above. But when one is flying a plane, one wears perhaps the soft wool aviatrix suit that Ardanse designed, in pale yellow and with a draped collar that turns up to make a hood.

Or the shantung coat and helmet in oyster white, marked with large metal buttons, that another house offers for Miladi who wants only to slip something on over her sports or evening dress to get somewhere faster than her limousine will take her.

Of course, the flying outfit whether for pilot-ess or passenger is most properly trousered. If you are flying a short distance, it does not pay to bother to dress for it. But if your flight is for several hours, let alone several days, the trousered woollen skirts is obviously the most practical and comfortable and chic thing you could select. And if you are pilot-ess, trousers are in order unless your flight is shorter than an hour, in which case a specially designed and appropriate coat is the thing.

* * * * *

We've been doing some flying around at Dawn Mirage ourselves, yes, in an airplane. When you have a couple of hundred acres of semi-desert and the nearest town consisting of three buildings and no street within nine miles away, wouldn't you be tempted to fly?

Well, other kinds of flying go on at Dawn Mirage, too. Flying around with paint brushes and plaster of paris and whatever, making all sorts of things for the house that can't be bought even if we could buy 'em. And stopping to write down each new trick and discovery for our deah public, so that you can do some real modern spring house cleaning with paint and brush instead of soap and water. Better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that is just out this week, full of house-furbishing tricks that any one can do!

* * * * *

Ho, for the bright, bright touch of red on black! It goes so well with miladi's gaiety, and her charming lips. It adds so much to the chic of a room—where all others have white touches on black. So, the delightful lady seen wearing the black crepe dress I illustrated for you today chose to wear coral lace for a collar, and have the same coral lace set in her belt. And we saw and admired all!

* * * * *

'N' just to illustrate the importance buttons can play in the mode, I made a wee sketch of a spring coat which depends, and rightly, upon its buttons for its chic.

* * * * *

One white and one black sleeve were effectively used on the same costume of black peau d'ange. The sleeves were georgette, and black and white flowers and leaves were appliqued at the joining of the sleeves.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Get Your Fresh Air and Sunshine These Spring Days.

"AND do give him plenty of fresh air and sunshine—all you can. It is good for you and the baby, too, good for all of us, you know, and good for all that ails you."

Elsie Pierce.

That was the family physician talking; the kindly, charming gentleman known to every mother. And when he said, "good for all that ails you," he spoke advisedly, for if there is any one factor that is emphasized in the quest for health, above all else, it is fresh air and sunshine.

We all know the value of sunshine. Babies thrive under its kindly light; withered plants take on new life and beauty; disease is routed; germs annihilated by the sun.

We have only to examine the advertisements in newspapers and magazines to realize what an important part sunshine plays in our lives. Surely, if it weren't so important to health, science would not stress it so, and man would not lend all his forces in the attempt to embody the health-giving qualities of the sun's rays in various commodities.

During the winter months, precious few humans get enough sunshine. They huddle in their homes and near the fire. A very cold spell, such as the entire country suffered last March, chases all but the staunchest fresh air fiends indoors. Which means very little sunshine and just as little new air for skin and lungs.

Today's message is in the form of a plea. As you value your health and your beauty, arrange your days during the next month or two, so that you will have enough time to take long, brisk walks in the open.

On Saturday afternoons, on Sundays, whenever you have a few spare hours, get friends and family together and go to the parks, plan picnics, boat rides, store some sunshine. It means health, it means rebuilding shattered nerves, and worn tissues, repairing the temple that is your body.

Learn to Breathe Deeply.

Breathe deeply, stand, sit and walk tall. Posture is important to health and beauty and posture coupled with deep breathing, getting plenty of fresh air into every part of the lungs will work wonders for you.

Spring sunshine is kinder to your beauty, because it does not leave a severe burn, does not coarsen the skin quite as much. But, as a safeguard always apply a protective cream or lotion before going outdoors to keep the texture of the skin fine and the pores closed.

Culbertson on Bridge

THE FALLACY OF FINESSING.

EVEN the soundest principles have their exceptions. It is the generally accepted theory of play that when you hold but seven cards of a suit, headed by such a combination as A Q 10, it is advisable to finesse if you can place the lead so as to lead up to the honor combination. This principle, like all other principles, has a firm foundation because experience has demonstrated that it will work the majority of the times.

The hand below, played in a recent Duplicate Bridge contest at the Toronto (Ontario) Whist Club, is an example of an exception to the rule.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 5 2 ♡ A 8 6 5 2 ◇ 10 6 5 ♣ J 10 4
♠ K J ♡ K J 9 ◇ J 7 4 2 ♣ Q 9 8 3	N W E S	♠ 9 7 6 3 ♡ Q 10 4 3 ◇ 9 8 ♣ A 5 3
	♠ A Q 10 8 4 ♡ 7 ◇ A K Q 3 ♣ K 7 6

At the table where Mr. John Jacobson was seated in the South position, the bidding ended with his Opening bid of one spade, his partner, North, feeling that his five-card suit and 1 plus honor-trick did not justify a bid of two hearts. So he decided to let well enough alone.

Mr. Jacobson then recounts:

"The club 2 was opened, on which East played the Ace. Scrutinizing the two hands, I concluded that I was due to lose 2 club tricks, assuming that West had led from four to the Queen, which was almost certain. I therefore conceived the bright idea of dropping the club King on the Ace to create an additional entry to Dummy, so that I could take two finesses in trumps. This brilliant coup was rewarded in the following manner: My first finesse of the spade 10 lost to the Knave; my second finesse of the Queen lost to the King; but my third lead, the Ace, won with the utmost ease, because West had no more! Thus, my marvelous foresight and card reading on the first trick enabled me to exactly fulfill my contract of one spade, losing only 3 trump tricks, two clubs and one diamond!"

After finishing the play of the next board, and while mulling over the things that might have been, Mr. Jacobson states that a charming young lady, at another table, informed him that she had just made game on the same hand.

"You know, Mr. Jacobson, you told me that expert players rarely finesse if there is an alternative play, so I led out the Ace and a low spade, dropping the Knave and King."

"And did you make any effort to enter Dummy for a finesse?" Mr. Jacobson asked

"Oh, no, I didn't need to. A diamond was opened and Dummy took the first trick with the Ten. Thank you so much, Mr. Jacobson, for telling me how to play. I'm sure I wouldn't have made game if I hadn't remembered what you told me!"

An emphatic example of where wrong is right.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Holding only seven trumps in the combined hands headed by A Q 10, the generally accepted principle of play is to finesse the Ten on the first lead of the suit.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable; par score—60.

	♠ Q 9 6 ♡ K 8 6 ◇ Q 10 7 4 ♣ A 5 3
♠ K J 7 5 4 2 ♡ Q 7 3 ◇ 5 ♣ Q J 10	N W E S	♠ 10 8 ♡ J 4 ◇ K 8 3 2 ♣ 8 7 6 4 2
	♠ A 3 ♡ A 10 9 5 2 ◇ A J 9 6 ♣ K 9

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

CREOLE SOUP IS DELICIOUS, AND DIFFERENT.

WELL, another week-end of April behind us, which brings us still nearer to the days of May flowers, but brings us, as it happens, little or no nearer to a plan for tomorrow's dinner menu. So what shall it be? A creole soup, for example, is a hearty and delicious one, and it can nicely be followed with a tongue omelet which will take care of the odds and ends of Sunday's beef tongue, for doubtless there are odds and ends on the larder shelf.

So now to our menu.

TUESDAY'S DINNER.
Creole Soup
Tongue Omelet
Shredded String Beans
Scalloped Tomatoes
Bran Muffins
Peach Cobbler
Coffee

Creole Soup.

¼ cupful rice, cooked
1 quart beef stock
¼ cupful green pepper, chopped
¼ cupful flour
2 tablespoonfuls butter
2 tablespoonfuls onion, chopped
1 cupful tomatoes
3 teaspoonfuls horseradish, grated
1 teaspoonful vinegar
Salt, pepper and cayenne to taste

Melt butter in a saucepan, add green pepper and onion and simmer for ten minutes. Add the flour, stock, tomatoes and seasonings. Simmer for twenty minutes longer. Strain before serving and add horseradish, rice and vinegar.

Scalloped Tomatoes.

Mix with one can of solid-pack tomatoes, one cupful of breadcrumbs and an onion, chopped fine. Add a half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Turn into a baking-dish and over the top sprinkle grated American cheese. Put into a moderate oven and cook a half hour, or until thickened. Serve at once.

Bran Muffins.

2 tablespoonfuls shortening
1 egg
¼ cupful sugar
1 cupful sour milk
1 cupful all bran
1 cupful flour
½ teaspoonful soda
¼ teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add the egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and baking powder. Add the all bran to the cream mixture, then the milk alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffing tins and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for twenty minutes. This makes twelve muffins. (If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit soda and use three teaspoonfuls of baking powder). Raisins or dates may be added, if desired.

Peach Cobbler.

1 medium-sized can peaches, sliced
1 egg
2-3 cupful sugar, granulated
Biscuit dough

Beat the egg slightly. Add the sugar and mix well. Add the peaches and a teaspoonful of butter, broken in small pieces. Place in a well-buttered baking dish and cover with biscuit dough.

Biscuit Dough.

To one cupful of sifted flour add four tablespoonfuls of shortening, one teaspoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Blend thoroughly. Add, gradually, sufficient milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a floured board and pat (do not roll) into a flat, round shape. Place over the peaches and bake in a hot oven until brown. Serve with hard sauce or foamy sauce.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—What meats may I eat while I am reducing? I know that I may have all kinds of fruits and vegetables (except bananas and potatoes!), skimmed milk, buttermilk, whole grain breads, &c., but I am in rather a "fog" as to which meats I may have.

Thank you very much for your help. LAURA M.

The first thing to remember in the selection of meats best for reducing is that those from which the fat can be removed most successfully are the ones for you. You will find that veal answers this requirement best of all, perhaps. The kinds of meat you will select, then, will depend on the amount of fat contained, for lean meat, providing it is entirely lean, differs little in caloric value whether it be beef, lamb, veal or pork. When you go to market, make a little inspection of the meats you will find there. Some, like pork and mutton and certain cuts of lamb, are so freely filled with fat that it can not be removed by trimming. These you must avoid until you have reduced sufficiently. In meats where the fat is found in large masses, so that it may very easily be removed, you will find your friendly foods.

The round of all meats is a favored cut for this reason. The lean centers of chops, if carefully trimmed, are free from fat, no matter whether pork, lamb, mutton or veal.

And now as concerns the actual cooking of these meats which you have selected. The trimming must all be done before cooking. Remember that, for otherwise much of the fat will cook into the lean and your results will not be successful. Try to use as little fat as possible in all your cooking. Avoid fried things, with the exception, perhaps, of a little bacon which is allowed once in a while because of its savory flavor, providing you cook it so that as much of the fat as possible is removed.

I hope this information will be helpful and that you will let us hear from you at any time we may be of service.

CANNED FOODS.

H. E. G. writes: Do the average brands of canned grapefruit, tomato juice and orange juice retain all the good qualities of the fresh fruit? It is stated that only ripe fruit is used in the above, while in many cases fully ripened fruit will not stand shipment for any distance.

REPLY.

The canned product is practically as good as the fresh. In some products, for instance, tomatoes, the canned product is thought to be better than that of the green vegetable market; in others the canned article is not equal to the fresh. Canning methods have improved greatly in recent years.

HE IS IMMUNE.

C. G. writes: Is a 2½-year-old boy who has had diphtheria and antitoxin injections immune to this disease?

REPLY.

Yes.

NOSE BLEED IN YOUTH.

Mrs. J. C. F. writes:

1. My 6-year-old boy suffers frequent nose bleeds. The last one he had the blood came out of his mouth. Is this anything to be alarmed about?

2. I have quite a lot of hair on my face. Can this be removed permanently by electricity? Is it painful?

REPLY.

1. Children have nose bleed frequently. It occasions more alarm than is justified and it is not significant. In some cases there are adenoids that may require removal. There is sometimes a bleeding point to be cauterized. Usually repeated nose bleed in young people means nothing more than that in the rapid growth of things for the house that can't the plans and specifications are not being exactly followed. Some parts are a little ahead of the procession, and others a little behind.

2. Yes. It is not pleasant. If there is a great excess the job is not worth while.

SANDALWOOD OIL.

A. C. writes:

1. What is sandalwood oil?
2. Has it any medicinal value?

REPLY.

1. It is an oil which is extracted from santal. The original oil was made from white santal found in India. The more frequently found product is made from yellow santal found in Hawaii. Potter says the product then on the market was very much adulterated with oil of red cedar and, therefore, was much less effective.

2. It is supposed to be of value in infections of mucous membranes such as in bronchitis and infections of the urinary tract.

CARE OF DELPHINIUMS.

OF COURSE, all we experienced growers of delphiniums understand that we must spray and dust from the moment the shoots appear above the ground until the frost cuts down the last leaf, and even then, if we are honest, we will admit that some of the blight eludes us. If we raise a plot of good delphiniums, say with an average of three to three and a half feet of good flower stalk, and have fairly good foliage on them, we indeed have cause for thanksgiving.

To begin, delphiniums like plenty of sun. If your garden is shady, better grow other varieties than larkspur.

While all authorities agree that delphiniums must have sun they do not agree about the necessary soil conditions. One authority tells us "they must have loam, deeply worked and well drained," and another suggests that we must use "good garden soil and, in planting, fill each hole with one-half well-rotted manure and one-half strong soil or good clay." Even with such difference of opinions I feel you are safe in using any rich, deeply prepared, cool, friable soil.

When planting be sure to place the crowns two inches or more below the surface, spread the roots carefully and firm the soil thoroughly about them before you level the surface.

In the spring a trowelful of bonemeal should be dug around each plant. Never use fresh stable manure as this is thought to be responsible for root fungus. Any manure should be well rotted and not applied directly to the crown of the plant. A moderate amount of sheep manure or bonemeal worked into the ground around the plants a few inches away from the crown is really a safer way to fertilize these plants.

Whenever we have rapid changes in temperature, wet or sunless seasons, we have some mildew. Plants that are growing in only partially drained soil are sure to be troubled with mildew. This is also true of plants growing in shade or plants that are syringed at night. Of course, we can not control the weather, but we can change drainage and the time we water our plants.

Certain varieties are more susceptible than others. Always take up this subject with your dealer when purchasing these plants.

The best way to combat or control mildew on any plant is to dust both sides of the foliage and all of the stems with sulphur or spray with Bordeaux mixture.

lovely for spring to complete an ensemble or to wear without a coat.

The bias shoulders and other bias lines are very slimming to the heavier figure.

It is fashioned of black and white crepe silk print. The upper bodice and sleeves are plain white crepe silk.

Style No. 2614 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Sheer woolens, crinkle crepe and rayon novelties are smart for this slenderizing model.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS"

IF April 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4:10 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger hours are from 7 a.m. to 8:40 a.m., and from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

You will feel energetic on April 25 and will accomplish many things which have been hanging over your head. Unsatisfactory affairs of the heart and suffering through jealousy for the young folk. Ratio of probability of accidents is at its minimum on this date.

The child born on this April 25 will be largely governed by its emotions, and will be a seeker of thrills. It will be warmly affectionate, and will demand considerable love and attention. It will be generous and giving to the last degree.

If born under the influences of "Taurus" you are by nature a fighter, and you are not a victim of fear—especially that of physical cowardice. You are a very hard worker, loyal and headstrong, but you are rather lacking in tact and diplomacy, and your judgments are many times made too quickly. You have a great capacity for endurance, and you will take considerable punishment before you will let go. You take your losses too much at heart, and you let regrets sadden and sour your nature.

A strong sense of justice colors your "make-up" and you wish to give and receive a square deal. You are a little bit hard on those whom you consider sinners, and you are very careful to whom you extend a helping hand. You are very honest with yourself and all the world. If your sense of humor were more highly developed you would probably not take life so seriously, and you would be more forgiving.

You are not interested in sports, and care little for outdoor pleasures. You are very fond of reading, and have a keen appreciation for music. You should study the latter, at least for your own pleasure. You know how to enjoy a quiet night by your own fireside. If you be a woman, you are too much of a "stay-at-home." You should cultivate the sociability side of your nature, and take up more outside interests.

Successful people born April 25: David Hale, journalist.
William Deering, manufacturer.
Felix Morris, actor.
Mrs. Burton Harrison, author.
Thomas S. Clarke, sculptor, and painter.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THOSE BARGAIN RATE OCEAN TOURS.

"HELLO. Is this the steamship company?"

"Yes."

"I want to go abroad."

"We'd be delighted to have you. Where do you wish to go?"

"How far can I go for $30?"

"Did you have any country in mind at that price?"

"I had thought of Egypt or some place like that."

"Egypt is just a little farther than we can carry you for $30. Could you go as high as $33.98?"

"I might."

"Well, for $33.98, we could take you to Naples. That isn't so terribly far from Egypt."

"I had my heart set on Egypt."

"Our Egypt trip is marked down to $51.75 and we think it a very reasonable price. There's real value in this trip."

"Thirty dollars was all I intended to spend."

"We just haven't any trip marked at the flat $30 rate. How about Maderia at $22.65, reduced from $49? That's our April special."

"I've been to Madeira."

"Could we interest you in a week-end cruise to Bermuda for $9.33 round trip, including sightseeing trips ashore? This is one of our best bargains."

"Does it include golf, bicycle hire and horseback rides?"

"Everything. It's very lovely for the money."

"It sounds good, but I want to be gone longer than a few days. How about Jamaica?"

"The directors are working on a new price for the Jamaica trip at this very moment. It will be the fourth cut this season."

"How much will it be?"

"The last rate was $19.50 for a three-weeks cruise. I have an idea it will be cut to around $15.10, with wine served at all meals aboard ship."

* * * * *

"What are you getting for round-the-world cruises this year?"

"We're making a special spring offering of round-the-world cruises. I'm glad you mentioned them. You can make the trip on one of our largest liners for $100.68. It covers all expenses for four months."

"I like the round-the-world idea but I planned on spending only $30."

"I think we can fix that for you."

"How?"

"Why don't you open a charge account with us?"

"Can I do that?

"Certainly. And we can let you pay by time payments. You go wherever you like on our ships and charge it. Then, whenever you can afford it, you pay us a little something."

"Oh, that'll be just wonderful."

"May we consider you booked for our next round-the-world cruise?"

"Yes indeed * * * and lissen."

"What is it?"

"I think I'll go twice around!"

THE OBVIOUS THING

"THE rapid decline in Telephone is due to the inability of investors to know whether a dividend cut is ahead."—News item. Why not ask for information?

Most of us couldn't know less what to do about the country's problems if we had been reading the presidential candidates' speeches.

The Singer Midgets are reported feeling very optimistic now that Governor Roosevelt had come out for the little man.

JUST COULDN'T HELP IT.

A horse called Spinach won at Havre de Grace the other day. The charts noted, obviously, that he "raced greenly and showed plenty of grit."

Says Elmer Twitchell: "Governor Roosevelt's St. Paul speech didn't blaze any new trails but it slowed up Al Smith in his attempt to get out of his coat and vest!"

CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK.

"Helen Twelvetrees, wife of Frank Woody, expects a baby in the fall."—News item. Well, if it's a boy, how about calling him Forrest? Or, better yet, Woodrow?

SCIENCE ACADEMY TO CONVENE TODAY

Experiments on New Cure for Drug Addicts to Be Told at First Session.

Leading scientists of the United States will convene in Washington this morning for the first session of the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences at the National Academy of Sciences Building, 2101 Constitution avenue northwest. The various sessions, which will continue through tomorrow, will be open to the public. They will be followed by meetings of other scientific groups.

The first session will be opened with a revelation of experiments on a new cure for drug addicts by Prof. Wilder D. Bancroft, of Cornell University. Prof. Bancroft will present his conclusions on the possibility of curing addicts by the administration of drugs which affect the coagulation of the proteins of the nervous system.

A high light of the afternoon session will be a paper on infantile paralysis by Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute, and the experiments he has made to uncover the mode of infection and possible means of prevention of the disease which swept the Northeastern States last summer.

Henry Memorial Celebration.

This evening the scientists and research workers will celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the electrical discoveries of Joseph Henry, first secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, from whose experiments came the basic principles of the telegraph and the electric motor. Almost 100 years ago he experimented with wireless transmission of electrical energy.

Astronomers and physicists will have a prominent part in tomorrow morning's session. Dr. Walter S. Adams, of the Mount Wilson Observatory, will give a 10-minute illustrated lecture on the distances and luminosities of the brighter stars. Dr. A. O. Leuschner, of the students' observatory, University of California, will discuss the determination of the orbit of an object moving under the attraction of the sun and of the combined mass of earth and moon.

A symposium will be held tomorrow afternoon on climatic cycles. Available evidence on the rhythmic temperature variations, which are believed to have been in progress for thousands of years, will be presented at this time.

Discussion on Trees.

Evidence gathered from measurements of tree rings, the size of which indicates the heat and moisture of the year during which they were formed, will be presented by Dr. A. E. Douglass, of the University of Arizona. He will show how tree rings can be traced back by thousands of years in practically unbroken sequence.

Dr. Charles G. Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, will tell of recent discoveries on periodicities in the variations of solar radiation, upon which the earth depends for its warmth. Dr. Adams and S. B. Nicholson, of the Mount Wilson Observatory, will report on recent observations which may explain these cycles in the sun's output of heat.

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, of the American Geographic Society, will describe the correlations found between climatic records and sedimentary records over many centuries. Dr. John C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution, will preside at the symposium. The annual business meeting and election of officers will take place Wednesday.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE should be singing and dancing in the streets!

The National Theater Players, despite the dolorous pronouncements of the week-end, will continue their spring season through the ten weeks originally mapped and charted. But not without some travail.

Long since have I made myself anathema to a great percentage of the membership of an organization that seems to think itself sacrosanct and everybody else its fair prey, but I still persist that fidelity to the bonds of one's fraternity can be carried too far.

There is no jusification, as I see it—and I may be blind as a bat—for a group of artisans, or even artists, and there could be a great argument about the category, to assume the position that they hold not only their own destinies but those of all their allies in the associated arts—or crafts, or whatever they may be—in the palms of their calloused hands.

That is the stand that one group has taken in the case of the National Theater Players. They have stuck to the letter and not to the spirit of the agreement. A contract is a contract. No doubt it is. But there come times when a little adjudication does not come amiss, even among the best friends or the worst enemies.

Such a time seemed to have been reached last week when the relationship of the National Theater Players and their obtuse adversaries became acute.

The outcome you know.

That is, if you read The Sunday Post, as who does not?

Stephen E. Cochran, manager of the Players, has agreed to salary the four musicians that he feels the National can support during the summer. The National Theater Players, themselves, have assumed the burden of the additional men the Musicians Local No. 161 feels must be in the pit.

But the fact of the matter is that no musicians will be in the pit. The salaries will be paid and no services demanded.

Now I ask you!

I am awaiting the day when the Musicians will make a similar courteous gesture in the general direction of the actor!

Hey-hey and alackaday, business was not so good over the week-end. Whether you have to have a specific excuse or not, for some reason the cash customers were not coming in Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

With the sole exception of the Palace. Arthur Tracy, "The Street Singer," known to many radio fans as one of the more appealing of the subtle vocalists, is packing them in at the corner of Thirteenth and F, where all that dirty demolishing is being done for the estate of my late friend, Walter E. Brownley, one of the best scouts who ever lived—Cuba the same time I was in Porto Rico, and all that.

But at the others of the first-run, downtown houses, business was not so forte.

Next to the Palace, came Victor McLaglen, the big so-and-so, and Charlie Judels, the big this-and-that, at the Rialto. These boys, with a skillfully routined act, that still could be tightened a little—but what, after all, is getting tight, among friends—are knocking the paying patrons right out into the aisles with their dynamite.

That's all it is, just dynamite. Boom-boom and the way you go! They have more power to the period and area of explosion than TNT multiplied by a careful estimate of the destructive potentialities of everything Mr. Maxim ever thought of in the way of destructive percussions!

Bang!

So Mr. Meakin, the smartcracker, calls up and says "The schedule for RKO-Keith's, beginning Monday, will be this-that-and-the-other.

"And the vaudeville, at ....."

As if I didn't know!

Miss Lewis, of The Post's reviewing staff, you are being paged by Mr. Arthur Tracy, of the Palace stage show!

Don't say I didn't tell you!

Edward Everett Horton's business is acting, and when he does it before the camera, he always makes a profit, so says Hubbard Keavy, clocking our A. P. wire.

On the stage, however, he sometimes gets little more than pleasure, or even takes a loss.

Horton has been putting on plays in Hollywood, before, between and during motion picture engagements, for many years. His productions are elaborate, he always has a full orchestra, and he surrounds himself with well-known stage and screen players.

Horton doesn't always make money on his footlight ventures. A comedy he is currently playing in, "Springtime for Henry," is a big success. His previous play, "The Shaughraun" (which he renamed "The Scamp"), an elaborately staged piece with a large and expensive cast, cost Horton $35,000 for its two weeks' run.

"It was worth it, though," said Horton afterward. "Everyone had a lot of fun, and I had the most of all."

Being the highest paid free-lance actor in town (his salary is said to be $5,000 a week), Horton feels he can afford to indulge in his play hobby.

"I've never been anything but an actor," he says. "In school and in university (Columbia) I paid more attention to the 'drayma' than anything else. As soon as I got out of school, I went on the stage.

"I'm an actor, so I've got to keep on acting."

He says he loves the stage, the thrill of playing directly to audiences and hearing their applause, the excitement of a first night, the worry during rehearsal, and the gratification that comes with a success.

When the comedian is appearing in a play, his movie contract grants the privilege of Wednesday and Saturday afternoons away from the studio for his matinees. This frequently means giving all of Sunday to the picture, but Horton doesn't mind in the least.

His day, when he is both picture and play actor, begins when his alarm clock rings at 6 a. m., and ends when he retires sometime around midnight. And he is busy every minute of the time.

Horton usually has one or two other "name players" in his stage casts. With him in "The Swan" (which ran eleven weeks, a long time for Hollywood) were Marie Dressler and Lois Wilson. Laura La Plante and Mary Astor made their stage debuts in another Horton play.

Others who have been with him recently include Montagu Love, Gavin Gordon, Irene Purcell, Lillian Bond, Ernest and David Torrence, Leatrice Joy and Florence Eldridge (Mrs. Frederic March).

Now is this a stint or a stunt?

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL EULOGIZED BY ENVOY

The life of St. Vincent de Paul, the first exponent of organized charity, was described by M. Paul Claudel, the Ambassador of France, at a meeting commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the introduction of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul in the District of Columbia, held at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday morning.

Representatives of 29 parishes attended a mass celebrated by Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, at 7 o'clock, which was followed immediately by a breakfast at the Mayflower.

George J. Cleary, president of the Particular Council of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul in Washington, presided and the speakers were introduced by Mgr. Edward L. Buckey, pastor of St. Matthew's Church, where in 1857, under the pastorate of the Rev. U. I. White, the first conference of the society in the District was organized.

The Rev. Joseph Bruneau, rector of St. Mary's Seminary of Baltimore, gave an account of the life of Frederick Ozanam, founder of the society, who at the age of 20 years, while a student at the University of Paris, started this charitable organization which in the 99 years of its life has spread to every country in the world.

Other speakers were the Rev. John O'Grady, director of the National Catholic Charities of Washington, and John G. Bowen, of Georgetown University.

The meeting was attended by 250 delegates from the 29 parish conferences of the society in the city.

Among the guests of honor were Admiral William S. Benson, president of Catholic Charities of the District; John W. Philp, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General; Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest; former Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana; Patrick J. Haltigan, reading clerk of the House, and Ferdinand G. Fraser, commander of the District American Legion.

Sermon on Mount Cathedral Topic

Meaning of Beatitude on Meek Is Discussed by Cannon Gummere.

In the absence of the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, Canon John W. Gummere was the preacher at the afternoon service at Washington Cathedral yesterday. His sermon was a consideration of the beatitude, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

Mr. Gummere said: "The Sermon on the Mount is difficult to understand in the form in which it comes down to us. It may be that it really never was preached, but that, as we have it, it is a collection of sayings spoken by our Lord at different times under different circumstances and for different purposes. If we are truly to understand the significance of the difficult portions of the Sermon, it will be only as a result of a successful attempt to surround them with the environment in which it is conceivable that they may have been spoken.

"It would seem that the phrase, 'Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth,' is an excerpt from a sermon of our Lord dealing with the subject of the Kingdom of Heaven. The thought may have been used by Him as a foil for the more vigorous teaching that the Kingdom is taken by the violent by force."

20,000 SEE NATS HAMMER EARNSHAW FOR 8-2 WIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

TWO intellectual batteries were working at Griffith Stadium yesterday. Earnshaw and Cochrane are graduates of Swarthmore and Boston University respectively, but the Nats had brains plus working for them.

Prof. Monte Weaver is the proud possessor of degrees from both Emory and Henry College and the University of Virginia and Moe Berg is a graduate of both Princeton and Columbia, with a mastery of seven languages tossed in to help sway the decision toward the Nats in the alignment of intellect.

◆

With Jimmy Foxx on third base, Dykes on second, Williams at short and Coleman in right field, Connie Mack's championship team looks as if it is disintegrating on his hands.

◆

Mack's infield combination, which tossed in three errors in the first two innings made the conventional sieve look like a triple-plated, reinforced, steel-bottomed receptacle.

◆

Monte Weaver's presence on the mound yesterday was partly for the benefit of the Baltimore patronage. Several hundred made the 40-mile excursion to see the Baltimore Oriole perform, and were rewarded.

◆

Mickey Cochrane took a deal of punishment throughout Earnshaw's tenure, catching the big right-hander's shoots on his shins and elbows among other parts of his anatomy. Big George tossed in three wild pitches in the first one and one-third inning that didn't help.

◆

Earnshaw was laughing throughout the afternoon, but the suspicion is that the smile was on the other side of his face.

◆

Both Earnshaw and Weaver were throwing a change of pace all afternoon that made the jitters look like something constant.

◆

All three strikes against Simmons in the first inning were called by Umpire Brick Owens. When he called the third one, Simmons glared at Owens as if it was lese majesty and against the American League rules.

◆

Manush faced Earnshaw in the first with memories, not fond, of last Sunday's game when he hit for pyorrhoea—four strikeouts out of five. Then he tripled to right field and scored on a wild pitch and it was salve for his wounds.

◆

Jimmy Dykes looked diligently in his glove for Heinie Manush's grounder in the second inning, and, after a long search, concluded that it had rolled away from him into right field.

◆

Earnshaw fanned the side in the second inning, but don't jump at conclusions. Sandwiched between his three strikeouts were a single by Myer, a double by Reynolds, two wild pitches, and errors by Dykes and Williams, which presented the Nats with three runs.

◆

Dykes took two swings in the third and then changed his bat for a luckier one. It was almost lucky, at that, for Cronin was barely able to get under his high pop.

◆

Judge dug down in the dirt to come up with the completed end of a double play in the third. His copyright on the play can probably be found in the Patent Office.

◆

Bluege rounded third and was almost home when he was amazed to learn that Simmons had caught Berg's liner and had doubled him up at second base.

◆

Al Simmons hit a Philadelphia home run in the fourth inning, but as the teams weren't playing at Shibe Park, Reynolds backed up against the fence and made the catch.

◆

Both Buddy Myer and Heinie Manush aimed their bunts toward Jimmy Dykes at second base in the fourth inning, but Earnshaw was taking no chances on Dykes in his new position and fielded both balls.

◆

◆

Jimmy Dykes looked at Dib Williams and Dib Williams looked at Jimmy Dykes as Monte Weaver's Texas Leaguer dropped between them in the sixth, whereupon both looked askance when Weaver took second base when nobody covered the bag.

◆

Heinie Manush raised a powerful hand in defense of the Nats' cause in the seventh and came down with Al Simmons' line drive safe in his glove a foot from the fence.

Tilden Victor Over Burke In 3 Sets

"Big Bill" Triumphs Over French Pro, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0.

1,000 See Concluding Play in Tournament at Wardman.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

BIG BILL TILDEN won his umpteenth thousandth tennis tournament yesterday afternoon at Wardman Park Hotel when he defeated Albert Burke, French professional champion, 6—4, 5—7, 6—0, before the German Ambassador, the Canadian Davis Cup team and about 1,000 politely rabid tennis fans.

The lambasting master of the tennis racquet produced a bewildering assortment of strokes, net science and dramatic calisthenics to sweep over Burke in a love set to win the match, after the impeccable Irish-born French titleholder had more or less astonished the galleries by winning the second set from the Great Man, whose winning streak makes Jim Londos' look like a flash in the pan.

Roman Najuch, roly-poly German master, defeated Emmett Pare, 6—2, 6—3, in the curtain raiser, while Tilden and Pare teamed to beat Burke and Najuch in a beautifully played doubles exhibition, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, as night was falling on the courts and Washington was witnessing the remnants of its first professional tournament.

Tilden Was Simply Tilden.

Tilden was simply Tilden yesterday. He battled along with Burke on even terms, held at bay by the everlasting steadiness of the foreigner, but whenever the specter of defeat loomed on the horizon he began stalking about the court with the grim determination and marvellous stroking perfection which boosted him to the top of tennis a dozen years ago, and since had held him there.

Service held sway in the first set until 4-4, when Tilden raised his game a notch to break through for 5-4, and made good on his own mighty delivery to take the first set, an ovation and a bow or two. Burke stuck to his guns in gallant fashion in the second set, running Tilden from side to side with his flawless continental strokes, and aided by Tilden's lapses in concentration, he went to 5-4. Tilden came back like a punching bag to tie up the count, 5—5 in a game that saw some of the most superb backhand driving ever committed.

Players Ruffled by Decision.

Burke got to 6-5 in the eleventh game, but not before the boys became a bit ruffled over a line decision which went against Tilden and which caused Burke to hit the next ball a mile out of court. Tilden came back and served a pair of faults high up on the back fence, but unmindful of the applause of the gallery (a hidebound tradition in tennis, which forces witnesses to applaud garrulous sportsmanship), Burke stuck to his knitting and broke Tilden's service. Leading 6—5, he came through on his own delivery, winning the set on a sensational netcord shot as he raced headlong into a sideline box.

Bicentennial Group Seeks Army-Navy Game Here

Civic Leaders to Ask President's Approval of Plan to Stage Clash of Service Rivals to Aid Sports Program.

POWERFUL forces with well defined plans are behind the proposal to bring to Washington the Army-Navy football game. This was determined yesterday in informal discussion among leaders of the movement.

Close on the heels of open discussion of the game in Congress Saturday came the announcement that a committee of congressmen, local civic leaders and members of the District Bicentennial Commission will shortly call upon President Hoover seeking his approval of the contest.

In addition to Representative Fred A. Britten, of the administration forces, and Representative William B. Bankhead, influencial Democrat, both of whom spoke Saturday, it was learned that members of the military and naval committees in both houses have expressed themselves as favorable to the proposal. Dr. George C. Havenner, executive chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, also was revealed as one of the active leaders in the movement.

The District Bicentennial Commission has proposed to furnish the place for staging the game and otherwise aid in arranging for its conduct, while it has been suggested that receipts of ticket sales be divided equally among the two service institutions and the commission. Under the plans advanced, tickets would be placed on sale early in the summer so that the funds derived could be put to immediate use.

Army and Navy have not as yet agreed to play this year, but both have made possible the arrangement of the game by leaving open the date of December 3 in their schedules.

The athletic treasuries of the two schools and of the District Commission are low at this time, it was stated yesterday. With the profits of the game, Army and Navy could restore their programs to normal scope, while the commission could carry out its plans for free sports events on a scale commensurate with the importance of the George Washington celebration. As an example, it was pointed out, the Commission could bring here the various squads of foreign athletes who will compete in the Olympics and also embellish the President's Cup Regatta to a degree that would gain it a niche in national sports history.

Cubs Pound Spencer To Rout Bucs, 12-3

Chicago, April 24 (A.P.).—For the first time this season, what remains of the once-famed Murderers' Row, slugged the Chicago Cubs to a one-sided victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Glen Spencer absorbed all the punishment of the sixteen-hit attack that gave the Bruins a 12-to-3 victory, Manager Gibson letting him go the route despite the fact he was hit hard from start to finish.

Sonnenberg Faces Martin At Bolling Field Tonight

DYNAMITE GUS SONNENBERG, wrestling's "Babe" Ruth, tonight brings his celebrated "flying tackle" to Bolling Field Armory, where he is to oppose belligerent "Bool" Martin, self-confessed "Trenton Terror," in the feature of a six-bout wrestling card.

Sonnenberg, former king of the Bowser realm, will be making his first appearance locally in two years.

Against Martin the big fellow who introduced football tactics to the rassle game, figures to show his best. Equally as aggressive and willing as "Bool," "Dynamite Gus" likely will travel at top speed all the way.

Pojello, Massimo In Semifinal.

Lined up behind the top spot are five of the brightest supplementaries yet offered on the military reservation.

A second wind-up go features Karl Pojello and Clivio Massimo, while 30-minute time-limit affairs involve Sam Cordovano and Danny Winters, Charley Strack and Marvin Westenberg, Lee Wycoff and Bob Wilkie and Pete Dallas and Bob Grant.

Tickets for tonight's matches remain on sale at Goldie Ahearn's, 500 Ninth street, until 5 o'clock this afternoon. Due to the expense of the card ladies are to be charged full price.

Indians Gain Cissell in Trade

Give Chisox Hodapp, Seeds for Infielder and Moore.

Shortstop Will Report to Tribe Today in St. Louis.

CLEVELAND, April 24 (A.P.).—Announcement was made by the management of the Cleveland Indians tonight of a trade with the Chicago White Sox that brings Chalmers (Bill) Cissell, the $123,000 shortstop, and Jim Moore, right-handed pitcher, to the Indians.

Cleveland now owns two of the highest-priced minor league stars in baseball—Cissell and Kamm, both originally with the Sox. Kamm cost Chicago $75,000 in 1923, while Cissell brought an even higher figure five years later. Kamm has been with Cleveland several seasons.

Moore Likely to Be Farmed.

Moore is expected to be turned over to Toledo of the American Association, Cleveland farm, but Cissell will report at St. Louis tomorrow to don an Indian uniform.

The Indians have been angling for Cissell for two years. He is 28, fast, and owns a fine throwing arm in addition to being known as a scrappy, heads-up ball player. He has a four-year batting average of .261.

In gaining Hodapp and Seeds, the Sox gain in batting power. In Cissell, Cleveland gets a badly needed infielder with defensive ability.

During the winter trading season, General Manager Billy Evans angled in vain for some one to strengthen the club at second base and shortstop. Strong in hitting power, the Indians have had indifferent success for the past two seasons because of poor infield defensive play.

Seeds Promising Outfielder.

In Seeds, the Tribe is giving up one of the most promising young outfielders in the game. But with the Indian outfield already so well equipped, there was little chance of his breaking into the line-up. Hodapp is believed, however, to have passed the zenith of his career.

Moore was with Cleveland four years ago but only for a short time. Chicago purchased him from Little Rock of the Southern Association.

Chicago bought Cissell from Portland in the Pacific Coast League in 1927 for $75,000 cash and players valued at $48,000. He was known for a time as Chicago's "$123,000 beauty."

Davis Cup Players In Practice Here

Ellsworth Vines, national amateur tennis champion and bulwark of the American Davis Cup Team, led the United States' representatives into Washington yesterday and, with Wilmer Allison, Frank Shields and John Van Ryn, practiced on the courts at the Chevy Chase Club, where the United States-Canada tie will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Vines, fresh from his victory over Allison Saturday in the final round of the important Mason and Dixon tournament, exhibited superb form yesterday in a light warming-up practice with Shields as an opponent.

Pepper Martin Injured; May Be Out Month

Cincinnati, April 24 (U.P.).—Pepper Martin, hero of the last world series, dislocated his left shoulder when he slid into first base in the eighth inning of today's game between the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards' famous centerfielder will be out of the game for three weeks or a month because of the injury. He was sent back to St. Louis tonight for treatment there by club physicians after an X-ray had disclosed no fracture.

Nats' rookie pitcher, who won his third straight game by turning back the Macks yesterday.

RED SOX HELD TO 6 HITS BY PIPGRAS

NEW YORK, April 24 (A.P.).—George Pipgras, in rare pitching form, held the Boston Red Sox to six hits and struck out twelve as the Yankees won an easy 9 to 2 victory today.

The Yanks assaulted Pete Donohue, Wilcy Moore and Bob Kline for fourteen hits, four of them by Frank Crosetti. Three of Crosetti's blows were doubles. Ben Chapman wrenched his right knee and left the game in favor of Earle Combs.

Yesterday the teams were tied for fourth place in the standings, but the Indians pushed the Browns into fifth with today's game.

TWO $10,000 STAKES FEATURE FINAL WEEK AT GRAW

Aberdeen and Chesapeake Scheduled

Preakness and Derby Candidates to Get Test Saturday.

Hygro and On Post Ailing; Aberdeen Draws Juveniles.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 24. The final week of racing here under the auspices of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association, figures to be an auspicious one. Two $10,000 added stakes, one for 2-year-olds and the other for 3-year-olds, grace the program. The first will be the Aberdeen, which is set for next Wednesday. The second, the Chesapeake, long regarded as a final testing-block for Kentucky Derby and Preakness candidates, will headline the getaway-day card next Saturday.

All but 5 of the 40 candidates for the Chesapeake are eligible for the Preakness or Derby, or for both. The candidates for the Kentucky and Pimlico specials are designated in the following list of eligibles for next Saturday's special:

Dr. J. Fred Adams' Rehobeth (P), Audley Farm's Late Date, Barry Vail Stable's Senado (D), Belair Stud's Faireno and Pardee (PD), A. C. Bostwick's Proteus (PD), E. R. Bradley's Bertjohn (D), Charlton Clay's High Proof (D), Charles J. Eisenhardt's Portam (P), Glen Riddle Farm's War Hero (P), Greentree Stable's Byzantine, Curacao and Semaphore (PD), and Pending; Hal Price Headley's Indian Runner (D), and Big Beau (PD); Walter M. Jeffords' Boatswain and Slaveship (P), Leslie E. Keiffer's Daisaburo (P), J. O. Keene's Pancho Lopez, Sylvester W. Labrot's Springsteel (D), and Open Hearth.

Mad Frump in Group.

Loma Stable's Tick On and On Post (PD), Mereworth Stud's Air Pilot (PD), Nevada Stock Farm's Hygro (P), C. Harvey Pierce's War Plane (D), Sagamore Stable's Towee (PD), Sage Stable's Microphone and Paramour (PD), Morton L. Schwartz's Barcelona Pete (PD) and Guston (P), Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Clotho (PD) and Mad Frump (P), Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Over Time and Stepenfetchit (D), George D. Widener's Evenin and William Ziegler, jr.'s, Peacock Alley, Phantom General and The Crane (P).

It has been definitely established that On Post, one of last year's real good 2-year-olds, and Hygro, another star last year, will not be starters. The former, a hard horse to bring up to his best form, has not come along well in his early training.

Hygro was cut about his legs in his race here last Saturday, and will be on the shelf for about six weeks.

Tick On, second choice in the early betting on the Kentucky Derby, is almost certain to fulfill his engagement in the Chesapeake.

Racing here tomorrow is to be headlined by the Lochearn, a mile and 70 yards event for 4-year-olds and upward, which holds fourth place on the program. The Mayfield, at a mile and 70 yards, for 3-year-olds, will be the secondary feature.

VIENNA DOWNS C. & P.

Danny McDaniels fanned 19 and granted only 2 hits as the Vienna Fire Department nine defeated the C. & P. Telephone tossers, 5-1, at Vienna yesterday. Howard pitched well for the losers, but was given poor support. Green and Froman connected for three-baggers.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS WINS.

Columbia Heights scored an easy 14-to-7 victory over Bolling Field on the latter's diamond yesterday. Rose and Lieb held the losers well in check throughout the fray. The slugging of "Brother" Harding and Dick Wingate featured the Columbias' attack.

TWO FOR CAPITAL NINE.

The Capital Midgets won a double-header yesterday, downing the Aztecs, 23-4, and the Hawks, 8-7. For games with the winners call Manager Casey at Lincoln 5431.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

The code horse won again Saturday, paying better than 4 to 1. Unfortunately the bank roll did not benefit by it because, as previously stated, we promised connections not to publish names of these good things. So we just slip them to you in code. So far not one code horse has run out of the money. The roll was nicked three bucks Saturday and is now $19.90.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL, HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

Last week at the Graw. The winter horses are fast losing that condition edge they had over their rivals who stayed in the North. Anything can happen and it did happen last week. Many a dollar has been burned up on horses that were getting the "conditioner"—but that's what makes racing as they told me Saturday when Happy Scot cut off Tred Avon and the chart said the Labrot filly wasn't good enough.

If you work yourself up to a betting pitch today, try some of these. BILL.

FIRST RACE—STAR POTER exhibited neat speed for most of the way in that first start. Is likely to improve off that effort and may not find the opposition as much today. LIQUEUR made up a lot of ground the last time and appears to be dangerous here. Moe Lowenstein has CRUISING, a first-time starter, in this race. The Whiskalong gelding has worked well.

SECOND RACE—BLIMP, now the property of the Colgate stable, has been rested and is reported fit for a hard race. Worked here in good fashion and should pay off in double numbers. CALGARY KAY brought his brilliant winter form North and took two races at Bowie. The one to beat. BRIGHT BIRD'S last was impressive.

THIRD RACE—The Grogan-Parr entry of LADINO and WISE COUNT may run one, two in this sprint. LADINO toyed with a lower grade of opposition at Bowie, while WISE COUNT showed two fast races. A track other than fast would help LADINO. VISHNU defeated WISE COUNT in the mud at Bowie at a shorter distance.

FOURTH RACE—ENGLISH KNIGHT showed no signs of stopping the other day when he surprised with his sprint victory. Callahan did not have to extend the son of Bright Knight and he may be able to go the longer route and have a lot to do with the big end of the purse. BOATSWAIN is in about the same class. Won easily after running second to Ladfield at 6 furlongs. SNOBFUL must be considered.

FIFTH RACE—GLENSIDE must have been fooling in that last race. At that, he ran evenly. I look for a return of that Florida form today and a set of brackets. PIGEON HOLE has been up against lean times as far as winning races are concerned. Goes in cheaper company and may be second. STONE MARTIN for third.

SIXTH RACE—A mile and a quarter is a specialty of SKIRT and the mare might step out today to make it mighty tough for her rivals. Magnc, the millionaire's son, probably will ride. FAIR BILL has been knocking at the door and will be doing just that again today. CULLODEN will hardly be sent back.

SEVENTH RACE—SILVERY won Saturday and will be dangerous here if he starts. TAZEWELL served notice the last time out and likes the distance in this. MAKE BELIEVE for third.

Workman Doing Well; To Ride, Says Doctor

Dr. M. J. Herschman, who operated on Raymond (Sonny) Workman at Emergency Hospital Saturday for hernia, said last night that he has virtually assured the C. V. Whitney Stable's star jockey that he will be able to ride in the Kentucky Derby on May 7. Workman is scheduled to pilot Top Flight. The rider was resting comfortably last night and there was no sign of complications.

The operation was not an emergency one, it was said.

Houghton-Shorey Lose To Baltimore Golf Pros

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

AN interesting four-ball match played yesterday on the course of the Kenwood Club, in which C. T. McMaster, Rolling Road, and Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, two Baltimore professionals, were paired against A. L. Houghton, Kenwood professional, and Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, ended in a victory for the visitors.

On the eighteenth tee the home talent were 1 up and 1 to go, but Spencer squared the match with a par 4, both Houghton and Shorey missing their second shots. It was then decided to play five more holes and the Baltimore players won the first three in succession. Spencer driving the green on the third hole. Two eagles featured the match, McMaster scoring a 3 on the fifth hole and Houghton a 3 on the twelfth. Shorey, McMaster and Houghton each had a card of 73, while Spencer's total was 77.

HENRY'S HENCHMEN GO ON TRIAL TODAY IN POLICE SHOOTING

Kendrick and Yudelevit Face Charge of Attempting to Kill Patrolman.

$300 EACH MONTHLY PAID GAMBLER'S BODYGUARDS

Clews to Slaying Being Run Down at Philadelphia and in New Jersey.

The bodyguards of Milton W. "Milsie" Henry, slain gambler and "finger man" for imported criminals, will face trial today in the District Supreme Court on charges of assault with intent to kill Patrolman T. D. Bacon, of the First Precinct.

John Kendrick, escaped New Jersey convict, who was paid $300 a month by Henry for personal protection, and Harry Yudelevit, familiar figure among Washington gamblers and recipient of a like stipend from Henry for the same services, stand accused of shooting the policeman.

Meanwhile, Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass is casting for leads through Camden and Philadelphia, the operating territory of Kendrick when he was a cohort of Micky Duffy, alain South Jersey beer baron. Within ten miles of Philadelphia, detectives believe, will be found the slayers of Henry.

No Word From Brass.

Evidence obtained in the car, believed to have been used by the killers, resulted in the dispatch of Brass to Camden. There was no word of progress from him at an early hour today. The clews which he took with him will probably take several days to investigate.

Kendrick will be represented in court today by Attorneys Harry T. Whelan and James A. O'Shea, while Yudelevit will be served by Attorney S. McComas Hawken. In view of the recent publicity attached to association of the two men with Henry, it is probable that a postponement of the trial will be sought.

The major concern on the part of police is now centered in the vicinity of Philadelphia, but other leads are still being followed in Washington. Other stories have reached police of double-crossings by Henry among other gamblers.

$2,000 Holdup Not Reported.

Less than a month ago a gambler with whom Henry was formerly associated was held up and robbed of $2,000. The holdup was never reported to police. Those in the "know" in the underworld attribute the robbery to Henry, who had had a misunderstanding with his partner and disrupted their gambling enterprise.

The robbery of $7,500 from a bookmaker more than a year ago, which took place in a hotel near Vermont avenue and L street northwest, also is charged to the account of Henry. Police heard of this holdup two days after it occurred and the bookmaker admitted the holdup to police.

After three days of intensive work the police have been unable to identify the body of the man found in the Potomac River on Friday. He was strangled with electric wire before being tossed into the river.

WIMBLEY DEFENSE TO STRESS FAINTING

Will Offer Testimony Today That Drowned Wife Had Swooning Spells.

In an attempt to prove their contention that Mrs. Elizabeth Traylor Wimbley drowned accidentally in the C. & O. Canal after being seized with a weak spell, attorneys for Harry C. Wimbley and John M. Crowder, jointly accused of the murder, are today expected to introduce testimony that Mrs. Wimbley was subject to fainting spells.

There is doubt that the defense attorneys, Louis L. Whitestone and Cedric Johnson, will place Crowder on the stand. Should Wimbley successfully withstand the cross-examination he will undergo today by Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins, it is unlikely that Crowder will testify.

Mr. Collins is expected to begin his cross-examination of Wimbley when court convenes today. Since Wimbley was on the stand for four hours during his direct testimony, it is expected that the cross-questioning will occupy the greater part of the morning session.

The defense is expected to call as the next witness R. Rupert, of Clarendon, Va., a civil engineer, who will testify that if the canoe had been upset near the bank, as Crowder's alleged confession states, the body of the child would not have drifted to midstream. Wimbley says the canoe overturned in midstream while Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter, Wilma Traylor, were the only occupants.

The alleged confession of Crowder says that the canoe was upset near the south bank when he slipped as he stepped into it, upturned the canoe and threw the wife of Wimbley and his stepdaughter into the water.

Neither Mr. Whitestone nor Mr. Johnson would indicate the nature of the testimony which is expected to be introduced to show that Mrs. Wimbley had, for more than a year before her death, been subject to physical weakness. Relatives of Mrs. Wimbley have testified that she never had treatment for any serious or chronic ailments.

The testimony of Mr. Rupert, the civil engineer, will be of soundings made in the canal and he will also introduce in evidence a chart of the currents in the canal. As the case is now progressing, it is likely that the fate of the two men will be placed in the hands of the jury some time Wednesday.

Rum Car Captured At Door of Station

Driver Vanishes After Parking in View of Policeman.

Police of the Tenth Precinct had little trouble last night in confiscating a quantity of liquor and an expensive make of automobile—they were left at the front door of the station by a man who mysteriously disappeared.

Policeman W. S. Smoot was sitting in front of the station house in the precinct radio car, when a colored man drove past, cast an inquiring look at the officer, stopped a few yards away and backed his machine into a parking space reserved for police cars.

The man stepped from the car, looked in the station house window and walked briskly away. Officer Smoot became suspicious and decided to investigate the car. In it he found a gallon of liquor. The machine and liquor were confiscated and a lookout sent for the colored man.

Blooms Fall As Rain Hits Cherry Trees

A light shower of rain early last night ended the display of single cherry blossoms and accelerated the flower of the double bloom variety, according to officials of the Park Police.

Traffic around the Speedway was particularly heavy, as thousands of visitors glimpsed the fading blooms. The disappearing blossoms were offset by the large patches of tulips which are now in full flower around the east Potomac driveway. A fair display of double blooms of the cherry trees is noticeable at the entrance of the drive, and by the middle of the week full blooms on the trees are expected.

A sparse showing of pink blooms on the crabapple trees in Anacostia Park is reported by park officials. The crabapple blooms which are expected to rival the Japanese trees in beauty, will not be fully matured until next year.

Traffic over the Mount Vernon Memorial Bridge and highway was reported to be not unusually heavy yesterday. No serious collisions marred the day for motorists.

RESPECTING OF LAW URGED BY DR. NEVILS

Washington K. of C. Chapter Holds Annual Breakfast at Mayflower.

Respect for authority was the keynote of the talk made by Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, at the breakfast given at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday morning by the Washington Chapter, Knights of Columbus. Dr. Nevils was introduced by Fred J. Rice, supreme knight of the District of Columbia.

The breakfast, an annual event, followed communion mass at St. Matthew's, celebrated by the Rev. Edward H. Roach, chaplain of Spaulding Council. Among the guests of honor introduced by Mr. Rice were D. J. Callahan, supreme treasurer; Reed Stanton, chairman of Washington Chapter; Andrew J. Scullen, District deputy; Arthur B. Williams, master of the fourth degree; William Murray, grand knight of Washington Council; T. J. Burke, grand knight of Spaulding Council; George Howell, grand knight of Potomac Council; George Herring, grand knight, Carroll Council; James Flynn, faithful navigator, fourth degree, and Lieut. Comdr. William A. Cogan, dean of the Georgetown University Dental School.

In introducing Dr. Nevils, Mr. Rice spoke of the part tradition plays in the affairs of every nation and every organization, and said that the Knights of Columbus are building tradition within their order.

Dr. Nevils said that the true Catholic is taught obedience to authority from the time of his entrance into the church. He spoke of attacks on authority, from the lower to the highest offices, and declared that while he had no political interests, he believed in submission to the authority vested in the officials selected to rule over the country.

"All authority comes from God," Dr. Nevils said, "and no matter to whom it is delegated, whether by selection by the people or heredity, it is our duty to respect the persons who represent that authority."

Dr. Nevils said that it was the patriotic duty of every Knight of Columbus to respect the authority of those in power, reserving to themselves the right of honest criticism and the right to vote against that person if they so desire.

POLICEMAN IS HURT IN CHASE OF DRIVER

Is Kicked in Stomach Arresting Stolen-Car Suspect After Pole Crash.

A thrilling chase through two sections of the city of the driver of an alleged stolen automobile by a police radio car of the Second Precinct ended late yesterday when the fleeing machine crashed into a telephone pole and a policeman was severely injured in arresting the driver.

The radio car, manned by Privates C. E. Helms and G. E. Cooper, cruising in the vicinity of First and Fenton streets northwest, came upon a machine parked at the curb. Its driver, a colored man, sped away as the policemen approached. The police car gave chase and the two machines raced through the streets at a 50-mile-an-hour pace.

Through a porton of the Northwest section and into Northeast the chase continued. At Second street and Florida avenue northeast the fleeing machine crashed into a telephone pole. The driver jumped out and fled.

Again the chase was taken up—this time with the participants on foot. Several blocks away, in an alley between H and I streets northeast, the man was cornered. He resisted arrest, and during the melee Policeman Cooper was kicked in the stomach. His partner succeeded in holding the man until the arrival of aid from the Ninth Police Precinct.

The prisoner said his name was Earl Owens, 26 years old, of 46 Pierce street northwest. Although the machine he was driving was thought to be stolen, he was held on an open charge pending the outcome of Cooper's injuries.

31 Traffic Lights Will Be Relocated

Program Is Authorized by Commissioners; Five Signals Dropped.

A program calling for the relocation of 31 traffic lights in the District has been authorized by the District Commissioners.

Five other lights will be removed from operation under a plan instituted by Director of Traffic William A. Van Duzer.

Numerous lights on K street northeast and one at Fourteenth street and South drive in the mall will be removed. Mr. Van Duzer's program is based on a theory that an intersection should have a traffic flow of 1,000 cars an hour or more before a light should be installed.

The changes have been approved by the Traffic Advisory Council, a group appointed by the Commissioners to study traffic conditions and to advise on changes.

Policeman Shoots His Knife Attacker

Critically Wounds Man He Seeks to Arrest on Liquor Charge.

George Tolliver, colored, of 1117 Sixth street northeast, was shot twice and critically wounded by Private Luther C. Wise, Ninth Precinct policeman, yesterday morning when he stabbed the policeman with a knife as Wise sought to arrest him on a drunkenness charge.

Wise, a brother of Sergts. John Wise and Charles Wise, of the Police Department, was stabbed in the abdomen by Tolliver during a tussle, which began when he was arresting the man in front of his home. Tolliver was taken to Gallinger Hospital, where an emergency operation was performed. He later was transferred to Casualty Hospital. Private Wise was treated at Casualty for the wound, which was not serious.

Dr. A. B. Baden Elected Head of Secular League

Dr. A. B. Baden was elected president at the Washington Secular League's sixty-third annual election yesterday afternoon at Musicians Hall.

Julius Davidson led a forum discussion on the depression and the duty of intellectuals. He deplored "the scarcity of bold leaders to espouse effectively the cause of the masses."

Duplicate Key Thief Gets $104 Loot.

Harry Scharnikow, of 1206 Madison street northwest, last night reported to police that a robber entered his home by a duplicate key and made away with jewelry and money totaling $104.

"Make No Outcry" Bandit Robs Another Taxi Driver

A neat appearing youth, about 16 years old and known to police as the "Blond Boy Bandit," picked his second victim in less than three days last night, when he held up and robbed a taxi driver, whom he hailed at the corner of Fourteenth and U streets northwest.

The driver, Robert W. Sisson, of 3125 Georgia avenue northwest, told police of the Eighth Precinct that the boy told him to drive out Connecticut avenue until told to stop. At Chesapeake street, Sisson said, the youth produced a gun and demanded money. After obtaining $6, he warned the driver to make no outcry and fled.

On Friday night a youth of the same description hired the taxi of Samson Brohler at Seventh and U streets northwest, and asked to be driven to Belt road and Ellicott street northwest. Upon arriving, the passenger shoved a gun into Brohler's back and escaped after robbing him of more than $2.

In each case, police were told, the bandit was about 16 years old, neatly dressed and with wavy blond hair. He use the same words—"Make no outcry"—after robbing both Sisson and Brohler. He was wearing a green sweater, had no hat and was about 5 feet 6 inches tall, police learned.

COMPLAINING SPIRIT DECRIED BY PASTOR AT GRACE LUTHERAN

Results in Moral Paralysis, Rev. G. E. Lenski Says in Sermon.

CITES FACTORS INVITING RETURN OF CONFIDENCE

Pessimists Hotly Scored and Their Groundless Fears Are Exposed.

"The spirit of complaining spreads like a disease," said the Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, speaking yesterday morning at Grace Lutheran Church. "It seldom corrects and often it tends to make a bad situation worse. It encourages bitterness and unbelief and these end in inertia and moral paralysis," he went on.

"Sing a New Song" was the topic of the Rev. Lenski's talk. The speaker appealed to the American people, and particularly to its Christian elements, to put an end to undue expressions of pessimism and fear.

"For one thing, the productive powers of nature and of the world in which we live are unimpaired," he said.

Facilities Are Unimpaired.

"Stocks have shrunk and railroads are headed down grade toward bankruptcy. All that is sad and bad. At the same time, sunshine is still sunshine, water is still water and seeds planted in the soil still grow, giving food to the hungry and bread to the eater. Our factories can produce more goods than we can use and our mines and wells are by no means exhausted. All the powers of nature are still what they were, having been multiplied and magnified by human skill in various ways. What does this say to the pessimist who talks of starving and of hard times?" the Rev. Mr. Lenski asked.

"In the last generation nearly ten years has been added to the average life-span. Childhood is watched with a care and a skill almost divine. Our public schools, highways, parks and roads represent a most amazing display of cooperative effort for the common good.

Hundreds of Servants.

"Hazekiah may have had ten servants. The average man today, with the aid of electricity and other helps, has a hundred. An appraisal of these advantages is a standing rebuke to the pessimist. It bids him cease spreading discontent and it challenges him to an attitude of courage, confidence and gratitude.

"Other factors invite confidence at this time in spite of pessimism rampant everywhere. The very fact that the most prosperous people in the world should be halted temporarily in their mad rush after wealth—is not that an evidence that God is still God, that He has not resigned His throne in favor of His sophisticated children and that He is still willing to use the rod on those who may be needing it?

Golden Rule Endures.

"Sixty generations have been laid away in the dust since Jesus walked as a man among men. Yet His name abides and His church remains and His Gospel is potent in the saving of souls. The Golden Rule is as golden as of yore. 'Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy-laden' are still the sweetest words that ever fell on human ears.

"These simple facts, to the man who loves righteousness, can not be meaningless in such a day as this. They are guarantees that God has not forgotten this world which He created. His love endures though sins and sorrows multiply. Some day—sooner than men realize—His kingdom shall come and His will shall be done. The moral of it all, so far as this generation is concerned, can be stated in no better way than in our text: 'O sing unto the Lord a new song: For He hath done marvelous things,'" the Rev. Lenski concluded.

Two Central High Girls Still Missing

One Wrote Note Saying She Was Going to California.

The girls, Mildred Moffett, 17 years old, of 1327 Quincy street northwest, and Ruth Shapiro, also 17, of 950 Longfellow street northwest, left their respective homes about the same time Saturday morning to go downtown. They have not been seen since. The Shapiro girl left a note saying she was "going to California." It is thought they met somewhere in the downtown section and ran away together as they were inseparable friends in school.

Leon W. Moffett, Washington editor of the Iron Age and Hardware Age, and father of Mildred, declared she had no money or extra clothes as far as he knew.

Colored Students' Fund Urged on Welfare Body

Development of a revolving loan fund of $1,000,000 for scholarships for colored college students, under direction of Judge William C. Hueston, assistant solicitor of the Postoffice Department, was discussed yesterday before the Postoffice Mutual Welfare Association by R. A. Tucker and E. H. Lawson.

The Negro quota for college students in America was set by the speakers at 90,000, or one-tenth of the present college attendance, as compared with 20,000 Negroes listed in colleges of this country at present. The association took under advisement its indorsement of the revolving fund drive. A committee on nominations for the election in July was named by J. V. Stevenson, president of the association.

POLITICAL RELIGION RAPPED IN SERMON

Dean H. H. Kumnick Speaks at Fortieth Anniversary Service of Lutherans.

"The anniversary service of a Christian church is not merely a looking back to count the blessings of the past, it is a looking forward to what may yet be in the Kingdom of God," said Dean Henry H. Kumnick, of Valparaiso University, speaking yesterday morning at the Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church.

"Forty years of spiritual progress in the Capital City of a great Nation is indeed cause for rejoicing, but your anniversary service should impress itself upon the members as a challenge rather than an accomplishment.

"If we would be true to our spiritual heritage we must accept the challenge of the present day to rededicate ourselves to uphold the true character of the church of Jesus Christ. The church is a spiritual institution. It ministers to the highest needs of man. It must preach, if it is to express the ideals of its founder, the eternal salvation of man through Christ Jesus. There is a tendency today to compromise this spiritual mission and to fuse into the soul-saving platform of Christ's church man-made issues and pet reforms which rightfully do not belong under its spiritual banner.

"The church of Jesus Christ is richer and more affluent today than ever, but it must not become guilty of meddlesomeness and encroach upon the rightful domain of the state. New Testament Christianity does not contain the term political religion, but it has much to tell the world about the religion of the cross."

Church Organ Recital Is Given by Mlle. Nizan

Mlle. Renee Nizan gave an organ recital yesterday afternoon at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, Sixteenth and Park road. The program was under the patronage of Mme. PASTOR DENOUNCES FEDERAL PAY CUTS

Rev. Edward O. Clark Says Arms Reduction Should Solve Problem.

Advocating the slashing of national expenditures by armament reduction, rather than by cutting the salaries of Government employes, the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor, in his sermon yesterday morning at the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, appealed for the frank facing of present-day problems on a realistic basis.

"Approximately two-thirds of our national budget," he said, "goes for war purposes, past, present and future. This is the logical place where the cut to balance the budget should be made. Salary reduction is a cowardly and hypocritical economy resort," he said.

The Rev. Mr. Clark, speaking as a war veteran, was also strongly opposed to any bonus payment at the present time.

"If our congressmen," he said, "had courage they would turn deaf ears to the specious pleas of supposed patriotic veterans for bonus payment at a time when, it is said, to balance the budget thousands of Government workers will have to be laid off, many of them possibly veterans. This bonus demand shows how thin is the veneer of patriotism born of war fever."

The preacher continued to say that if leaders would face problems with courage and in the common interest, the presence of the divine would attend mankind through these difficult days.

His subject was, "The Unfailing Presence," and was based upon the text in Exodus 3:12, "Certainly I will be with thee."

Former Arlington Bridge Guard Kills Self With Gas

Ill health and loss of his position last night prompted Walter Bitt, 46 years old, a former guard on the Arlington Memorial Bridge, to end his life by inhaling gas in the kitchen of his fourth floor apartment at 1201 Twenty-first street northwest.

Bitt was found with his head in the oven of a gas stove by Mrs. Helen Cooley, a boarder in his apartment. All jets on the stove were open. As Mrs. Cooley entered the apartment after returning from downtown she was nearly overcome by the gas fumes.

Rushing to the kitchen, she saw Bitt slump to the floor. The Fire Rescue Squad was summoned and for more than an hour worked over the man with an inhalator. He was pronounced dead by a physician at Emergency Hospital.

Bitt lost his job some time ago because of ill health. He told Mrs. Cooley several weeks ago that he was tired of living and was going to take his life. She said she paid little attention to his threat, believing him to be only temporarily despondent.

Bitt is survived by a wife in California and a brother, George Bitt, in Annapolis.

CHRIST'S AID NEEDED TO MEET PROBLEMS, FURMAN HEAD SAYS

Dr. McGlothlin Speaks at 75th Anniversary Service of Fifth Baptist.

PRESIDENT'S GREETINGS PRESENTED AT SERVICE

"In the grip of world forces that are too great for any one man or any group of men, we should recognize the futility of all effort at a solution of our difficulties without Christ," said Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of Furman University, speaking yesterday at the seventy-fifth aniversary service of the Fifth Baptist Church.

Greetings from President Hoover were presented at the service by Walter H. Newton, the President's secretary.

"The faith of our fathers endured in the midst of persecution, imprisonment, loss of property and many oppositions most trying mentally, physically and spiritually," Mr. McGlothlin said.

Dr. McGlothlin expressed his concern for young people of today, "with atheism rampant in the land." He stressed the need for more education, but with emphasis on the fact that no institution of any sort whatsoever is safe apart from Christ and His principles.

A Light and Beacon of Hope.

"These must even be placed at the foundation of our economic life, the wealthy man must look upon the man in overalls as his brother and friend," Dr. McGlothlin declared.

Referring to the Fifth Baptist Church, he said: "The past of this church is noble and it is secure. It has been a light and a beacon of hope to this section of Washington and it has cast its healing rays to the uttermost parts of the earth. Its voice has been heard amid the din of battle and the thunder of the guns at Shanghai and its healing touch has been felt in the jungles of the dark continent. Its enlightening power and message of hope have come from its unswerving loyalty to the unchanging Christ."

"Today as we look back over 75 years of history we recall those who have gone before, and we see the outcome of their manner of life. In the light of the years not one would change except to increase his faithfulness."

Missionary Is Dead.

It was announced at yesterday's service that the Rev. Dr. R. E. Chambers, missionary of the Fifth Baptist Church in Shanghai, for the last 35 years, had died on Thursday of last week following an illness of only a few days. Death was caused by influenza.

Appropriate anniversary services will be continued at the church each evening until Friday. Tomorrow night a historical pageant will be presented setting forth the work of the church at home and abroad during the last 75 years. Anne Darlington of the Fifth Baptist Church wrote the pageant.
